U.S. OFFICIALS REVEAL TEXT OF INTERIM AGREEMENT WITH IRAN

Senior American officials dictated the memorandum of understanding with Iran to journalists Wednesday after days of secrecy

IRAN TO OPEN STRAIT, DILUTE ENRICHED URANIUM

The interim agreement would reopen the Strait of Hormuz and allow Iranian oil sales. The US will waive, but not eliminate, some wide-ranging sanctions against Iran. As for the issue of enriched uranium, Iran has agreed to down blend its stockpile. Down blending or diluting involves mixing enriched uranium with depleted uranium to reduce its radioactivity | P14

COUNCIL POLLS

Cong can win 5, BJP 2; Will JDS keep its flock united?

@Bengaluru

THE stage is set for biennial elections to seven MLC seats from the Karnataka Assembly on Thursday with eight candidates – five from the ruling Congress, two from BJP and one from JDS – being in the fray. KPCC president BK Hariprasad is among the five Congress candidates.

The polls will be a big test for Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, as these are his maiden polls after being elevated to the top post. He has fielded his close associate Vinay Karthik as the fifth candidate from the party.

Each candidate needs 28 votes from as many MLAs and in the 222-member House, Congress has 135 MLAs, BJP 63 – including Gangavathi MLA Gali Janardhan Reddy who merged his party with BJP – and JDS 18.

Apart from them, there are three independents – Darshan Puttannaiah, Puttaswamy Gowda and Latha Mallikarjun – and three MLAs expelled from BJP – ST Somashekar, Shivaram Hebbar and Basanagouda Patil Yatnal.

Congress can win four seats comfortably and expect to win the fifth too with the support of three independents and the votes of Somashekar and Shivaram Hebbar, who met Shivakumar at a resort in Bidadi where Congress MLAs are huddled. P4

Modi urges max priority to seafarers' safety in bilateral talks with Trump

Stresses strategic importance of keeping Hormuz open; trade deal very close, says US President

Prime Minister Narendra Modi with US President Donald Trump during a bilateral meet on the sidelines of the G7 Summit | AFP

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday placed the safety of Indian seafarers at the centre of discussions on restoring peace and stability in West Asia, saying he was confident the issue would receive the "highest priority" in implementing a new agreement between the US and Iran aimed at ending the recent conflict, during his first bilateral meeting with US President Donald Trump in 16 months on the sidelines of the G7 Summit.

"You are aware that across the world, Indian seafarers and hundreds of thousands are working and performing their duties across global maritime trade routes, including the Strait of Hormuz, and their safety is of utmost importance to us," Modi said.

The PM linked the protection of seafarers directly to the implementation of the agreement between the US and Iran. "You made tremendous efforts towards reaching this understanding and this agreement," he said. "I'm confident that the issue of seafarers will receive the highest priority during the implementation of this agreement," Modi said in the backdrop of mounting concerns over the safety of Indian seafarers in West Asia, including the deaths of three Indian nationals in a US strike on a tanker off the Oman coast.

Asked about the deaths of Indian sailors in US Navy strikes, Trump said: "It's a rough profession. This has been happening throughout time. I love all of those people," Trump said.

Modi also stressed the strategic importance of keeping the Strait of Hormuz open. The waterway is among the world's most critical energy and trade chokepoints, carrying 20% of global crude oil and liquefied natural gas shipments.

Trump praised Modi as a "very tough negotiator." Responding to questions on how close are two countries in finalising a trade deal, Trump said, "Very close. We have been there for a little while. He is a very tough negotiator; one of the toughest." He then added, "He is the most beautiful looking man, he looks so nice, he is like an angel. But actually he is just tough, he is a killer... He looks so good, he gets you by surprise." Trump said the US would support India in the event of an attack, even without a formal mutual defence treaty, while describing bilateral defence ties as strong. P11

Ties expanding on multiple fronts

Trump said bilateral relations were expanding across multiple fronts, highlighting economic growth and investment flows between the two countries. "A lot of things are happening between the US and India. And the US is doing the best we've ever done."

Indo prefix axed from name of US Pacific Command

JAVARIA RANA @ New Delhi

THE Trump administration has renamed its largest unified military command from the US Indo-Pacific Command (INDOPACOM) back to the US Pacific Command (PACOM), reversing an eight-year-old designation that had come to symbolise India's growing role in Washington's strategic thinking.

The US said on Tuesday that the command would revert to the name it carried from 1947, adding the change was limited to nomenclature. USPACOM's area of responsibility, stretching from the US West Coast to India's western border, remains unchanged, as does its stated mission of working with allies and partners to maintain a free and open regional order. The announcement came a day before Prime Minister Narendra Modi and President Donald Trump held a bilateral meeting on the sidelines of the G7 summit in France.

The 2018 renaming had explicitly referred to the "increasing connectivity between the Indian and Pacific oceans." It came as the first Trump administration was advancing its Free and Open Indo-Pacific strategy amid growing competition with China. The change also coincided with the revival of the Quad. Questions over the future of the "Indo-Pacific" formulation had emerged last month during the Shangri-La Dialogue in Singapore, where Secretary of War Pete Hegseth repeatedly referred to the "Pacific" while outlining Washington's regional approach. India was described as a "critical anchor" in South Asia, a formulation that some observers noted differed from the broader language used by previous US administrations.

Govt aims to up Bengaluru economy to $390bn by 2037

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

BY implementing the developmental roadmap, the Bengaluru Metropolitan Region (BMR) could boost its economy by $390 billion to $420 billion by 2037 and create an additional 2.5 to 3 million jobs. BMR's economy is now valued at $149 billion, contributing over 43% to Karnataka's Gross State Domestic Product (GSDP). This was discussed at a high-level committee meeting on Tuesday, chaired by Chief Secretary Shalini Rajneesh.

The region's economic indicators outperform both state and national averages, with BMR's per capita GDP at approximately $9,700 (Rs 9.15 lakh), nearly 1.9 times Karnataka's average of $5,000 (Rs 4.7 lakh) and about four times India's national average of $2,500 (Rs 2.35 lakh). The meeting decided to elevate BMR into a premier global hub for innovation, technology, Artificial Intelligence, advanced manufacturing and sustainable urban development.

The chief secretary reviewed the comprehensive roadmap presented by the Institute for Sustainability, Employment and Growth Foundation (ISEG Foundation). The state government signed a statement of intent with ISEG on May 5.

It was mentioned that during 2015–25, BMR recorded a Real Gross Value Added Compound Annual Growth Rate of 9.7%, outpacing Karnataka's growth rate of 8.5% and Hyderabad's growth rate of 7.5%.

The region currently supports nearly 38 lakh jobs, accounting for about 16% of the total employment in the state. It houses over 20 lakh tech professionals, more than 1,000 Global Capability Centres, and over 13,000 startups. "The formulation of the Economic Master Plan is progressing on schedule. To ensure balanced urbanisation and relieve pressure on Bengaluru's core areas, the government is planning new 'Growth Centres' both within and outside the city. These hubs will integrate industries, IT/BT, research, manufacturing, logistics, residential and commercial activities, spreading economic wealth to surrounding regions," a press release said. P7

UDDHAV SENA STARES AT SPLIT, ISSUES WHIP

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

IN a rerun of the Trinamool Congress crisis, leaders of Uddhav Thackeray-led Shiv Sena (UBT) as well as the rebel faction met Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla separately on Wednesday, each staking claim to legitimacy. While the UBT camp urged the Speaker to prevent unlawful defections, the rebel group is learnt to have claimed the support of six MPs.

As crisis deepened amid rumours of six MPs having switched to the ruling Sena led by Maharashtra Deputy Chief Minister Eknath Shinde, a three-line whip was issued to all nine Sena (UBT) MPs, directing them to attend a meeting of its parliamentary party on Thursday.

The party may initiate disqualification proceedings against those who fail to attend. The development came amid Rajya Sabha MP Sanjay Raut's allegation that MPs were being offered ₹50 crore to switch sides.

Sources said a letter signed by the six rebel MPs has already been submitted to the Speaker and a formal announcement of the merger with the Shinde-led Sena will be made later.

According to sources, the six MPs are Sanjay Jadhav, Bhausaheb Wakchaure, Sanjay Deshmukh, Nagesh Patil Ashtikar, Omprakash Rajenimbalkar, and Sanjay Patil.

MPs from the Uddhav camp who met Birla are Arvind Sawant, Sanjay Raut, and Anil Desai. Speaking to reporters, Anil Desai said: "Rebels can't merge with a party even if they have the support of two-thirds of MPs. Only the original party can merge." P12

Late-night match viewing harmful for health: Docs

Sleep deprivation causes loss of alertness, slows down reaction time, warn experts

GAYATHRI M KURUP @Bengaluru

WITH the FIFA World Cup 2026 set to keep football fans awake into the early hours of the morning, doctors are cautioning against the health consequences of prolonged sleep deprivation. While missing a few hours of sleep occasionally may not cause lasting harm, experts warn that repeatedly sacrificing sleep over the tournament's six-week duration could affect physical health, mental well-being and daily productivity.

Dr Bharath Chhabria, Lead–Pulmonology and Critical Care at Manipal Hospital, said many fans may not realise the immediate effects of sleep deprivation because of the excitement surrounding the matches. "At that point in time, with the adrenaline and excitement, you don't realise it. But the next day, people are not as alert, their reaction times are slower, they have difficulty concentrating and are more likely to make mistakes while working, studying or driving," he said.

He stressed that repeated sleep loss can disrupt the body's circadian rhythm and may contribute to anxiety, mood swings, hypertension and other metabolic disorders over time.

Doctors noted that while losing sleep for a night or two may only affect attention and performance temporarily, the impact becomes more significant when it continues over several weeks. "One and a half months is definitely a long time. That can affect blood pressure, cholesterol levels and the body's insulin sensitivity," said Dr Anjali R Nath, a pulmonologist at HOSMAT Hospitals.

She added that people who already suffer from sleep disorders are among the most vulnerable groups. "Those who already have broken sleep patterns and then reduce their sleep further are likely to face more problems," she said.

Doctors also expressed concern about the growing dependence on caffeine and energy drinks during late-night match screenings. Excessive caffeine consumption, they warned, may lead to jitteriness, anxiety and further sleep disruption while also increasing the risk of accidents due to delayed reaction times.

Dr Shantanu Tandon, Sleep Specialist, Sakra World Hospital, said continuous sleep is as important as adequate sleep."Having constant loss of sleep is going to affect people physically as well as mentally. They will be less productive and those who are prone to high blood pressure may start developing persistent blood pressure problems," he said.

According to Dr Tandon, individuals with existing cardiovascular conditions, hypertension and metabolic disorders could face the greatest risks. "People who are already borderline cases of medical problems may start experiencing long-term repercussions because of this," he said.

He also cautioned against the common belief that lost sleep can simply be recovered later. "Whatever sleep you have lost one night, by sleeping the next day you are not going to completely recover that. The only solution is to ensure adequate sleep subsequently and avoid making sleep deprivation a routine," he explained.

Among the earliest warning signs of serious sleep deprivation are difficulty concentrating, reduced productivity, irritability and persistent daytime drowsiness. Doctors advise fans to watch matches selectively, avoid excessive caffeine and sugary drinks, maintain a consistent sleep schedule and ensure at least seven to eight hours of uninterrupted sleep whenever possible.

BU students yet to get graduation certificates

ANUBHAB ROY @ Bengaluru

GRADUATES from colleges affiliated to Bangalore University (BU) allege that they are being deprived of their degree certificates in original hard copy. They said when their respective college authorities are approached, the latter claim that the BU is issuing certificates only through DigiLocker and that no physical degree certificates would be provided.

According to graduates from the batch of 2021-2024 (undergraduate) the issue started in 2024, when a circular from the University Grants Commission (UGC) was shared by the BU, which stated that graduation certificates and documents obtained from DigiLocker would be "valid documents as per the provision of the Information Technology Act, 2000". The circular, however, did not exempt universities from providing marksheets and graduation certificates.

A BA graduate from St Claret College (an autonomous college affiliated to the BU) said the college had obtained fees specifically for degree certificates in original hard copy, but refused to issue it even after two years. "Even on DigiLocker, our degree certificates are not available. Only the first two semesters' marksheets are available. I had to use a provisional degree certificate to take admission in a master's programme," said the student, who hails from Tamil Nadu.

Another BA graduate (in Psychology and Journalism) from the Jnana Pith campus of Bangalore University, said, "It has been two years now and we are yet to receive hard copies of our certificates, including the marks cards and convocation certificates. Every semester, the university charged Rs 200 as processing fees for the issuance of these documents. Recently, when the college office was contacted, they mentioned that the BU would not issue any original documents, and we have to get printouts from DigiLocker and get them attested by the college authorities. We checked on DigiLocker but the certificates are still not available there."

A source in the BU acknowledged the issue and said that the transition into DigiLocker was purely done as per instructions from the UGC. "We have received a lot of complaints from graduates. Some students' documents are not available on DigiLocker because there is a glitch with the Unified University College Management System (UUCMS) – a portal operated by the Government of Karnataka for admission approval and result processing. For some students, their names or other details entered into the UUCMS differ from those in their personal identification documents like Aadhaar. We have already written to the Higher Education Department about this," he said.

Citizens prevent debris dumping in B'wadi Lake

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

ALERT residents stopped a tractor dumping construction debris into Banaswadi Lake, raising concerns over safety of the water body. "This is deeply concerning. While significant efforts are being made across the city to restore and rejuvenate neglected and dying lakes, the very agencies entrusted with protecting public assets appear to be facilitating their degradation. The site, which was recently recovered from encroachments, cleaned, and fenced, is now being used as a dumping ground. The fencing has been damaged, and the area is rapidly deteriorating due to the continuous dumping of debris," said Christopher Cruz, a resident.

The residents urged for security like deployment of home guards and marshals, installation of CCTV cameras and beat police for protection of such places. It is said, owners in nearby areas engage contractors to remove the construction debris as well and instead of taking the debris for MI sand manufacturing unit on city outskirts, the tractor drivers however dump on road side or near lake and buffer zones.

"Debris dumping not only undermines the restoration work already undertaken but also poses environmental risks and encourages further misuse of public property," said a resident and added, the reduced water body currently is around 12 to 15 acres and is dry. If neglected, the land sharks will gobble the remaining one.

Officials from Bengaluru North City Corporation (BNCC) said the lake is still under revenue tahsildar's ambit. "We have had a correspondence with tahsildars' office and we will again follow it up. Once the lake is taken into the civic body's custody, we will fence the area," said an official.

BBP awaits CM nod for south India's largest aquarium

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THE Zoo Authority of Karnataka (ZAK) has approved a proposal to create the largest aquarium of south India in Bannerghatta Biological Park (BBP). The file now awaits clearance from Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, who is also in charge of the forest, environment and ecology ministry.

The BBP has proposed that the Rs 144.4 crore aquarium should be set up under the Design Build Finance Operate and Transfer (DBFOT) model. The project will be executed in two years, from the time of commissioning.

"Tenders can be called after the project gets the government approval. At present, the file needs the cabinet's and chief minister's approval. After four years of planning and beating red-tapism, the proposal was finalised and got the approval of the governing council at a meeting held on Saturday, and since then, the file is awaiting final clearance. Now it is delayed again," said a forest department officer.

Even though a sketch has been prepared, the BBP management has kept the designing and creation of the aquarium open for the bidders. It has been conceptualised on the lines of Aquatic Gallery at Science City in Ahmedabad.

The aquarium is planned to be created next to the butterfly park on a 7.5 acre land, of which the total built area is planned to be 65,000sqft. This will include 43,050 sqft of front-of-house facilities, 18,450 sqft of back-of-house facilities and 3,500 sqft of administration section.

The front part will include the aquarium entry hall, exhibition halls, main tank, circulation area, rest room and other amenities. "The plan is to house marine and fresh water fish species in a large aquarium complex, with a state of the art filtration system and a zero wastage model," the officer said.

The aim of the aquatic centre is education and awareness. Popular, endemic and native species of each region of Karnataka and India will be showcased in the aquarium. "The focus is to cover as many species as possible including the Mahaseer, also called as the Tiger of Water, which is now facing existential threat in the Cauvery river," an officer said.

HOLIDAY MATHIS

18th June : Saturnian Self-Care There are many ways to take care of yourself. A trine to Saturn and square to Mars suggest that not all of them will feel as good in practice as they sounded in theory. If something doesn't help the way you hoped, chalk it up to education and try something different. You're still learning what truly works for you, and that knowledge will help you create more happiness in your life.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Today's win has to do with your familiarity with a tool. The more you use it, the more it does for you. It's something different in your hands than it is in other people's. In a weird way, tools can become part of you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 - May 20)
Long ago you realized how much there was to gain from listening more than you talk. You continually practice deep listening because it gives you better guidance as you navigate all kinds of relationships, professional and personal.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 21)
You think about what the people around you might need, want and delight in. Being considerate comes easily to you. No wonder you are surrounded by friends and confidantes. People will learn what you do and hire you to do more of it.

CANCER (June 22 - July 22)
You're playful and that's why you get to know people faster. You quickly assess things such as compatibility, emotional flexibility and perspective. Through lighthearted communication, you come to a mutual understanding you wouldn't have with more formal interactions.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)
People are more persuasive when they stop trying to sound impressive and focus instead on making sure the other person understands their message. Today's prospects are bright because you say things in a language that feels grounded, direct and sincere.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)
Creative growth depends upon showing up repeatedly. You may resist a rigid schedule, but you still need to work in the time to do a thing regularly, otherwise your skill won't develop fully. Seek inspiration -- it motivates.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 23)
You know reactive people who run hot emotionally and seem to attract conflict. You'll consider your role in those situations. Perhaps they feel safe to lose control because they know you'll hold it together. But that doesn't make it OK.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 21)
You have a shorthand communication with someone -- a siblingesque connection. It's intimacy without ceremony. Familiarity without performance. It enables you to drop social formality and let your affection mix with what comes naturally, even if it's irritation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)
Count on the inexperienced to tend toward exaggerated estimations of their own abilities -- not necessarily a bad thing. The journey to greatness often starts with delusion. There's something to love about the innocence that doesn't know what it can and can't do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)
Allow yourself to be excited by novelty and levity. Today this mood is perfect for building rapport. Rapport can feel frivolous, but it's actually productive. And it's that rapport that makes it easier to get things done in the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
Shared pressure creates dark humor and deep trust. This is why co-workers who survive chaos together can develop a strange and lasting bond. Today you'll learn who stays calm and solves problems -- just like you.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - Mar 20)
It can be thrilling to stay open to an unexpected thing instead of rejecting it because it arrived unplanned. You do not need to control, organize or fully understand something before letting it into your life.

TRANSPORT VIOLATION CASES TOO UNDER 50% PENALTY SCHEME

Cases include permits, DLs, FCs, ECs, insurance

INDRA S @ Bengaluru

VEHICLE owners with long-pending transport violation cases can avail a 50 per cent waiver on penalties recently announced by the Transport department, from June 21 to July 10. The scheme covers over 1.87 lakh Department Statutory Action (DSA) cases registered between 1991 and 2022.

Speaking to TNIE, Omkareshwari, Additional Commissioner, Enforcement (South) and nodal officer for the scheme, said the waiver applies to cases involving permit condition violations and document-related offences, including invalid or expired Driving Licences (DLs), Fitness Certificates (FCs), insurance policies and Emission Test Certificates.

The department expects to recover around Rs 74.44 crore through the one-time settlement initiative if owners of vehicles with pending cases come forward and cleared their dues during this period.

Clarifying the penalty calculation process, Omkareshwari said fines will be assessed based on rates applicable at the time the offence was committed. "If a violation was recorded in 1992, the penalty will be calculated according to the rates that were in force during that period," she said.

According to the additional commissioner, pending cases were booked during routine enforcement drives conducted across Karnataka over the past three decades. Officials believe the waiver will encourage violators to regularise their records and close long-pending cases. Data shared by the department shows that Bengaluru Urban accounts for 76,487 pending cases, with an expected revenue collection of Rs 21.59 crore. Bengaluru Rural has 31,918 pending cases, from which the department expects to collect around Rs 9.12 crore.

The department has urged vehicle owners and operators with pending DSA cases to approach their nearest Regional Transport Office (RTO) and take advantage of the limited-period concession to settle dues and clear outstanding violations.

Migrant worker's 5-yr-old girl sexually abused by neighbour

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

A five-year-old girl of a migrant West Bengal family was allegedly sexually assaulted in Electronics City police station limits on Saturday afternoon.

Following a complaint by the girl's mother, a worker at a garment factory, their 21-year-old neighbour Ansar was arrested under the Prevention of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act and remanded in 14-day judicial custody.

The girl's father, a daily wage labourer, left home on Saturday morning for work, and the mother took her 4-year-old son along to the factory. She visited the home frequently to check on her daughter, and came to feed her during lunch hour and left home, which is a 15-minute walk from the factory. Taking advantage of the situation, Ansar took the girl to his house and abused her on Saturday afternoon.

"The girl was touched inappropriately and also allegedly bathed by the accused. When her mother returned home, the girl was sobbing and narrated her ordeal to her mother. The mother then approached the Electronics City police who registered an FIR invoking sections under the POCSO Act," said a senior official from the District Child Welfare Committee, West Division.

Committee officials visited the family, counselled and assured them of all legal help and financial compensation as per provisions. The family has been asked to appear before the committee. "Depending on the gravity of the case and condition of the family, at least Rs 15,000 compensation will be released on the spot after counselling," said an officer.

Asha HK, District Child Protection Officer, West Division, Bengaluru Urban, said an awareness programme will be conducted in the slum and area inhabited by migrants about child safety and measures to prevent harassment and sexual abuse. This migrant population has to go out to work, leaving their young ones alone for some hours in their sheds, she said.

Husband attacks wife with knife, dies by suicide

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A 34-year-old man allegedly stabbed his wife following a domestic dispute and later died by suicide by stabbing himself while being confined by villagers in Achalu village of Kanakapura taluk on Wednesday.

The deceased has been identified as Sanjay (34), while his wife, Nisarga (24), sustained grievous injuries and is now undergoing treatment. Her condition is stated to be critical.

According to police, the couple had been facing frequent marital disputes for some time. On Wednesday, Sanjay allegedly confronted Nisarga near a cyber centre in the village and attacked her with a knife he had brought with him.

Hearing her screams, villagers rushed to the spot, rescued Nisarga and shifted her to a nearby hospital. Sanjay allegedly attempted to flee but was chased and apprehended by villagers, who informed the Kanakapura Rural Police.

To prevent his escape before the police arrived, villagers confined Sanjay inside a room. However, before police could reach the spot, he allegedly stabbed himself in the chest and abdomen with the same knife used in the attack.

When police arrived and opened the room, they found Sanjay lying in a pool of blood. He had succumbed to his injuries due to excessive blood loss. Police shifted the body for a post-mortem and registered a case.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN a tragic incident, a 16-year-old boy who had left his house without informing his parents, fell from the Tin Factory flyover after speeding on a two-wheeler and crashing into the safety barricade in the early hours of Tuesday.

The deceased, Lawrence (16), was a second-year PU student at a private college and a resident of Ayyappa Nagar in KR Puram. He hailed from Andhra Pradesh. Lawrence left his house on a motorcycle around 2.50 am on Tuesday. While riding on the Outer Ring Road flyover from Tin Factory towards Kasturinagar, he lost control of the vehicle and crashed into the barricade. The impact threw him off the flyover, and he sustained grievous injuries. Passersby rushed him to a nearby hospital and later shifted him to another hospital, where doctors declared him brought dead. The police said the preliminary investigation revealed that Lawrence had left home without informing his parents and the purpose of his outing is yet to be ascertained. The police suspect that he took the motorcycle from a friend. A case will be registered against the motorcycle owner for allowing a minor to ride the vehicle.

5-yr-old boy killed, another injured as wall collapses

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A five-year-old boy was killed, and another child sustained serious injuries after a compound wall and gate of a house collapsed on them while they were playing in Bandikodigehalli under the Bagalur police station limits on Wednesday.

The deceased was Afin (5), while the injured child, Samanvi, is undergoing treatment at a private hospital. According to the police, the incident occurred around 6.30 pm when Afin, Samanvi and another child were playing near the compound gate of a house belonging to BC Narasappa. The gate and a portion of the compound wall reportedly collapsed on the children while they were holding and playing on it. Locals rushed the injured children to a nearby hospital. MORE QUERIES TO BE ADDED IN NEW APPLICATION FORM

It will ask if beneficiary's name is on voter list, if bank a/c linked to Aadhaar

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AS the state government under Chief Minister DK Shivakumar has been streamlining the five guarantees, the Gruha Lakshmi scheme will now have a revised application form with additional questions to weed out duplicate beneficiaries.

The new form is expected to ask whether an applicant's name is on the voters' list. It will also seek voter ID information and other details.

Gruha Lakshmi was launched in August 2023 aiming to benefit 1.1 crore women. Under the scheme, the government pays Rs 2,000 per month to the woman head of a family. Among the five schemes, the lion's share of funds goes to Gruha Lakshmi.

Shivakumar, who has been pointing to misuse of the scheme even before becoming chief minister, said recently that it has come to the government's notice that the money continues to be credited to the accounts of even deceased beneficiaries as their mobile phones are registered in somebody else's name. He estimated that around Rs 100 crore is being misused.

The existing form seeks details like the name and address of the woman head of the family, Aadhaar number, bank account details, husband's name and his Aadhaar number, caste, mobile number and even asks if they are income tax or GST payers.

The new form, official sources said, will have four to six more questions to get clarity. "There will be space to mention the voter ID number. It will ask whether the beneficiary's name is on the voter list, if the bank account is linked to Aadhaar and other questions. This is to rule out the misuse of the scheme and to channelise funds to genuine beneficiaries," sources said.

Shivakumar has stressed that beneficiaries may have to reapply under the revised system. "The state cabinet is likely to take a decision on the proposal. The new revised forms will be made available online and also offline at BengaluruOne, GramaOne and other centres across the state," sources said.

The CM has called a cabinet meeting on Saturday, and the Gruha Lakshmi scheme is likely to come up.

A senior official on anonymity said no final decision has been taken on revising the form, and it is still under discussion.

Govt taking fertile farm land despite protests: BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

Farmers say the land for the Bidadi Township project is fertile, which they have been tilling for generations | VINOD KUMAR T

BJP leaders on Wednesday alleged that the state government is acquiring fertile agricultural land despite severe resistance from farmers, for the township project in Bidadi. They urged the government to drop the project and warned that they would take up the issue in the Assembly and Council.

BJP state president BY Vijayendra, Leaders of Opposition R Ashoka and Chalavadi Narayanaswamy, and others visited Bidadi and held discussions with farmers and milk producers who are opposing the project. They accused the state government of misleading the public and failing to address the concerns of local residents.

Vijayendra told reporters that farmers in and around Bidadi have been protesting for many days, but the State government is saying that 80 per cent of farmers are ready to give up their land. "CM DK Shivakumar said Prime Minister Narendra Modi has given his nod, but PM has not. The State government is playing a game. We visited many villages and interacted with farmers, not to play politics but to understand the situation. The government is trying to grab fertile land," he said, and pointed out that wherever farmers face an issue, BJP would stand with them.

Vijayendra alleged that miscreants had called some farmers at night and threatened them. "The CM, who was supposed to stand with farmers, has taken up real estate work. There are other places, let him not take fertile land," he said. He urged the CM not to drag the PM's name into the controversy.

Ashoka said Bidadi contains some of the most fertile agricultural land in the state. The project would adversely affect farmers, dairy producers and sericulturists. "The region produces around six lakh litres of milk daily and generates substantial income through sericulture and horticulture activities. With the government's compensation package, farmers will not be able to purchase equivalent agricultural land elsewhere. The township would ultimately benefit outsiders while local farmers would lose their livelihoods and ancestral properties," he said. Referring to Congress leader Rahul Gandhi's recent comments on environmental conservation, Ashoka urged him to visit Bidadi and examine the impact the proposed project could have on agricultural land and the local ecology. He also questioned the need for a new township, claiming that lakhs of plots and flats developed by government and private agencies in Bengaluru remain unsold.

HDK slams Cong 'smear campaign'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

UNION Minister H D Kumaraswamy on Wednesday hit out at Congress leaders, accusing it of initiating a "smear campaign" after JDS and BJP leaders launched a protest against Chief Minister DK Shivakumar's ambitious Bidadi township project.

Accusing the CM of targeting his family by putting up posters stating that they are involved in land grabbing, Kumaraswamy said, "You are aware of the Benniganahalli denotification case. The same person who usurped land in Benniganahalli is now getting posters put up through his associates," he said. "The people know who I am and what this individual's credentials are. Shouldn't a person occupying the office of the chief minister maintain a certain standard? I am not a person who will be weakened by personal vilification. If such attempts are made, my fight will only become more intense," he added.

He accused Congress leaders of launching the poster campaign to malign him. "The total extent of land in my name is only 46 acres, which I purchased through hard work nearly four decades ago. Apart from that, I do not own any other land. Let them show where these alleged 100 acres are. Anita Kumaraswamy has purchased about 36-37 acres of land. They have even pasted the photograph of some unrelated individual alongside these allegations," Kumaraswamy said.

He also took strong exceptions to posts featuring BJP leaders --LoPs in Assembly R Ashoka and Council Chalavadi Narayanaswamy and state BJP chief B Y Vijayendra. "If we have committed any wrongdoing, instruct the authorities to take action. Why resort to anonymous poster campaigns?" he said.

BJP-JDS leaders opposing for political gain: Cong MLA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

MAGADI Congress MLA HC Balakrishna on Wednesday accused BJP and JDS leaders of opposing the proposed Bidadi township development project for political reasons.

Balakrishna said though the land acquisition process was ongoing when Siddaramaiah was the CM and some farmers were expressing opposition, Union minister HD Kumaraswamy and LoP in the Assembly R Ashoka did not oppose it at that time, and they are doing so now because they cannot digest DK Shivakumar becoming the CM. Terming it "opportunistic politics" by BJP and JDS leaders, the Congress MLA said the project was started by the Kumaraswamy government and not by Shivakumar.

The Congress MLA said 1,000 acres of land were acquired when the BJP was in power, and BS Yediyurappa was the CM. "At that time, we told the government that if they wanted to acquire, let them acquire all 10,000 acres. It was not correct to acquire 1,000 acres and declare the remaining 9,000 acres as a red zone. After our meeting with Yediyurappa, BY Vijayendra informed us that an aeronautical industry will come up there and they were ready to acquire 5,000 to 6,000 acres of land. He sought our cooperation. Vijayendra should tell us whether he said that or not," the Congress MLA said, showing photographs of his meeting with the BJP leader.

Asked if agricultural land is being acquired for the township project, he said most of the land in Bidadi is no longer agricultural land and has been developed through real estate. The Congress leader said there are farmers who want the project, and there are farmers who don't. "The majority of farmers have agreed to give land, and we will convince the farmers who don't agree and implement the project," he said, and added that farmers will be given compensation higher than market value.

The Congress leader said they have nothing to do with the issue of pasting posters in Bidadi, making allegations against the BJP and JDS leaders.

YATHINDRA LIKELY TO BE FLOOR LEADER IN K'TAKA UPPER HOUSE

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Bengaluru

WITH former CM Siddaramaiah's son and Urban Development Minister Dr Yathindra being given prominence on the dais at the Congress Legislature Party (CLP) meeting at a resort on Tuesday, speculation is rife whether he would be the party floor leader in the Legislative Council.

Yathindra, the lone Upper House member in the cabinet, got an opportunity to share the dais with father Siddaramaiah, also a CWC member, Chief Minister DK Shivakumar who chaired the meeting as CLP leader, KPCC president BK Hariprasad, AICC general secretary Karnataka in-charge Randeep Singh Surjewala, ministers MB Patil, KJ George, UT Khader and KH Muniyappa, and senior MLA RV Deshpande.

His joining the league of seniors sends a signal that the party would continue to give him prominence and could even hand him the floor leader's post. If MLCs Saleem Ahmed and Vasanth Kumar make it to the cabinet during expansion, Yathindra's position is unlikely to be altered, an MLC said.

Though Shivakumar, Hariprasad and Surjewala insisted that Siddaramaiah address the CLP, the latter humbly dismissed the offer. While one MLA viewed it as showing statesmanship, another claimed that Siddaramaiah was still upset that some of his loyalists went against him ahead of the change in leadership.

Addressing legislators, Shivakumar asked the MLAs to be cautious about the electoral roll SIR.

Intrigue intensifies as Cong eyes seventh MLC seat

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

WITH just hours to go for the Legislative Council elections, Congress and NDA are locked in a high-stakes game of whispers, counter-moves, and secret loyalties. Amid official statements and resort fortifications, back-channel deals are said to be unfolding as the ruling Congress has already begun celebrating the victory of its fifth candidate through carefully cultivated support from within NDA ranks.

Party insiders claimed that over the last few days, Congress operatives have firmed up support from a handful of disgruntled NDA legislators. At least three to four NDA MLAs may cross-vote for the Congress candidate, abstain, or deliberately invalidate their ballots, the sources added.

At resorts where MLAs from the three major parties have holed up, senior leaders are reportedly holding closed-door briefings and mock polls. These parties are planning to ferry the legislators straight to Vidhana Soudha under watchful eyes to thwart any last-minute poaching. While Congress leaders are quite confident that preference votes or strategic defections will deliver the extra seat, JDS strategists are working feverishly to keep their small but pivotal group intact.

No side has offered official confirmation of any specific arrangements, and as it is a 'secret ballot', loyalties can shift till the last moment.

Political observers said the battle for the seventh seat may well reveal deeper fault lines in Karnataka's straight fight between Congress and JDS-NDA.

Council polls likely to witness cross-voting

THE ruling party expects some some disgruntled MLAs from JDS, including Chamundeshwari legislator GT Devegowda, to back their candidates or abstain from the polls. JDS, to keep its flock together, put up its MLAs at a resort in Devanahalli. Interestingly, GT Devegowda's son and Hunsur MLA GD Harish Gowda, who has allegedly strained his relationship with his father, was made to issue the whip to party MLAs.

Congress and BJP, which held meetings at a private hotel, also issued whips to all their MLAs. As it is a secret ballot, cross-voting cannot be ruled out, sources said. Congress on Wednesday held mock voting to eliminate any risk and to weed out any possibility of invalid votes. Former chief minister Siddaramaiah and AICC General Secretary, Karnataka incharge, Randeep Singh Surjewala too were present.

Speaking at the resort, Shivakumar alleged that some 4-5 Congress MLAs, including Molakalmuru legislator NY Gopalakrishna, received calls from the JDS leadership.

But Union Minister and JDS state president HD Kumaraswamy dismissed the allegation. "We are a small party. What can we do as the government is in their (Congress) hands. They have all the manpower, muscle power and money power. How can we fight them? We have fielded a candidate as our party's votes should not be scattered. Our candidate has sought a conscience vote. I have also appealed to BJP leaders to transfer surplus votes to our candidate," he said.

CM DK Shivakumar takes part in a mock voting session ahead of the Legislative Council elections in Bidadi on Wednesday

Asked if internal bickering within Congress could turn out to be a blessing, Kumaraswamy said, "That is God's will if it works out that way. It will help checkmate the government from going unruly."

BJP held a meeting of its MLAs under the leadership of its state president BY Vijayendra and leader of opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka and discussed the strategy for the MLC polls. JDS leaders, including MLC SL Bhoje Gowda, were present.

Congress is likely to fix 29 preference votes, out of 140, to its four candidates -- BK Hariprasad, Tappanappa Kamakanuru, PV Mohan and BS Shivanna (Malavalli Shivanna) -- and the 24 surplus votes to Vinay Karthik, who will also get second preferential votes. Fixing 29 votes as against the 28 required helps the value of second preferential votes to be taken into account as per the formula. It is to be seen if Vinay garners second preferential votes and also gets cross votes from opposition party MLAs.

BJP is also expected to fix 29 votes, out of 63, to its candidates -- Lingaraj Patil and Raghu Koutilya -- and shift the remaining five to JDS candidate Inchara Govindaraju taking the tally to 23. That is if there is no cross-voting or abstentions from JDS MLAs. Kumaraswamy has reportedly sought the support of Basanagouda Patil Yatnal.

Roll out payment scheme for Karnataka mango growers: HDK to Chouhan

Bengaluru: Union Minister for Heavy Industries and Steel HD Kumaraswamy has written to Union Agriculture Minister and Farmers' Welfare Shivraj Singh Chouhan urging him to implement the price deficiency payment scheme (PDPS) through the market intervention scheme for mango growers of Karnataka. In his letter, Kumaraswamy stated that Karnataka is one of the leading mango producing states in the country, with mango cultivation spread over approximately 1.45 lakh hectares and an estimated production of nearly 10 lakh metric tonnes during the current season. "Major mango-growing districts such as Kolar, Chikkaballapur, Ramanagara, Bengaluru Rural, Dharwad, Tumakuru and Haveri support the livelihoods of thousands of farming families who depend substantially on horticulture for their income," he said. Stressing on distress being faced by mango growers in Karnataka, Kumaraswamy urged extending support to growers through the PDPS as it would help bridge the gap between market prices and remunerative prices, thereby ensuring fair returns to farmers without causing market distortions, he said. He also said such support would provide much-needed income protection to mango growers, particularly in districts such as Kolar, where horticulture plays a vital role in the rural economy. Kumaraswamy urged Chouhan to examine the matter sympathetically and consider providing appropriate support to mango growers in Karnataka under the PDPS scheme. ENS

HC TO ED: NECESSITY OF ARREST CAN'T SPRING FROM OLD CHARGES

Three accused question legality of their arrest on May 8 by the ED

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE necessity to arrest must arise from new circumstances, new material, or new conduct; it cannot spring from the ashes of allegations that have remained unchanged, the Karnataka High Court said while declaring the arrest of the directors/office-bearers of Games Kraft Technologies Private Limited by the Directorate of Enforcement (ED) as contrary to law.

Justice M Nagaprasanna delivered the verdict on Tuesday, while allowing petitions filed by Deepak Singh, Vikash Taneja and Prithvi Raj Singh, questioning the legality of their arrest on May 8 by the ED, a day after searches were conducted under Section 17 of the PMLA, at their residence in Bengaluru and Gurugram.

Counsels for the petitioners contended that a crime comes to be registered to overcome the interim stay order by court on an offence registered in 2024. The material that led to the arrest cannot be used for the arrest of the petitioners, they argued.

Countering it, Additional Solicitor General of India submitted that stay of further proceedings in the crime cannot impact investigation in the predicate offence in relation to three new distinct FIRs registered in Telangana Cyber police stations in February 2026.

After hearing them, the court observed that the apex court drew a clear and constitutionally significant distinction between the power to investigate and the power to arrest. The latter cannot be invoked merely because the former is ongoing. The material that animated the earlier case, the searches and seizures conducted, and material relied upon to justify arrest under the new case, are reflections of the same underlying allegations. Therefore, the attempt to justify arrest on the strength of material already in possession of the ED from earlier proceedings runs contrary to the very architecture of Section 19(1) of the PMLA, the court added.

The court also noted that it is an admitted position that no summons under Section 50 was ever issued to the petitioners before their arrest. Their liberty was curtailed even before the search proceedings conducted had reached fruition. Both the grounds of arrest and reasons to believe reveal that the ED was relying predominantly upon material already in its possession from earlier proceedings, said the court, adding that the ED is at liberty to initiate proceedings by following due procedure, exercising powers under Section 50 of PMLA and proceeding in accordance with law.

The historic Madhukeshwara temple at Banavasi in Uttara Kannada district; ASI workers carry out restoration | EXPRESS

When a 1,500-yr-old temple gets a new life

Banavasi (Uttara Kannada): The historic Madhukeshwara temple, which was leaking for the last 12 years has now been renovated by the Department of Archeology. The 1,500-year-old temple — constructed by the Kadamba rulers of Karnataka — was facing threat as the roof was leaking during monsoon. The entire temple was covered in tarpaulin to protect it from rain. After TNIE published a report on the condition of the temple, the Department of Archeology took up restoration work that was completed a couple of days ago. The department has painted the entire Gopura with transparent waterproof paint in three phases. The temple is known for its unique architecture and sculpture. Constructed by the early Kadamba rulers, the temple hosts the deity in unique honey colour thus earning the name of Madhikeshwara. ENS

Varsity suspends prof for asking research scholar to marry him

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Dharwad

KARNATAK University, Dharwad (KUD) Vice-Chancellor A M Khan suspended Botany Department chairman D Thangudarai here on Wednesday over allegations that he harassed a female research scholar pressuring her to marry him. A male research scholar also said that the professor repeatedly told him that his research work will progress only if he persuaded the female research scholar to meet him.

The V-C had sent a notice to the professor seeking clarification, but his response was not satisfactory, following which a committee was formed to look into the issue. Untill the committee submits its report, he will remain under suspension and based on the report, further action will be taken.

Speaking to TNIE, V-C Khan said a student filed a complaint against the professor alleging that he intentionally delayed awarding the PhD and forcing to make the family meet the professor.

Thangadurai dismissed the charge and said the student is making false allegations and added that he is not supposed to speak without the permission from higher authorities. "I am looking at legal ways to respond to the allegations," he added.

> These kinds of issues are suppressed before they come out of the campus. There are videos and other evidence to prove the allegations

Meanwhile, ABVP members staged a protest and expressed anger against the KUD authorities for not taking action against the professor who is facing serious allegations. The members staged a protest and damaged flower pots which were kept outside the V-C's chamber. The timely intervention of the police averted high drama at the varsity.

"We know that no authority will take action. These kinds of issues are suppressed before they come out of the campus. There are videos and other evidence to prove the allegations. The suspension was done on Wednesday after the protest was held," they added.

Security agency owner, driver abducted at knifepoint, robbed of ₹1.09cr

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A security agency owner and his car driver were allegedly abducted at knifepoint and robbed of Rs 1.09 crore in cash by a gang of seven miscreants near Kuduregere Colony in the Madanayakanahalli police station limits on Monday night.

According to the complaint, R I Shivashankar (41), a resident of Muniswamy Reddy Layout who runs a security agency in partnership with his associates, was travelling to his residence with Rs 74 lakh in cash in his car boot along with his driver, Chethan (21). At around 11 pm, two unidentified men on a scooter intercepted his vehicle near Kuduregere Colony. Moments later, five more men arrived in another car.

The gang allegedly threatened the duo with knives and beer bottles, forced them out of their car, and abducted them in another vehicle. They were taken to a forest area near Nelamangala, where the accused allegedly threatened to kill them and demanded more money.

Fearing for his life, Shivashankar told the gang that he had Rs 35 lakh at his residence. The accused allegedly made him call his wife through WhatsApp and instructed him to tell her that the driver would collect the cash from her.

One of the gang members, accompanied by the driver, collected the money from the house. Shivashankar and Chethan were held hostage until around 5 am on Tuesday before being released. Upon checking their car, they found that the accused had also stolen the Rs 74 lakh kept inside the vehicle, the FIR stated.

Police said that Shivashankar told investigators that he and his associates were planning to start a company under the name "American Nuclear Research Centre." The cash was allegedly pooled as investments for the venture. The investigation revealed that Shivashankar was previously booked in a rice-pulling fraud case at the V V Puram police station last year. Police suspect that the money involved in the robbery could be linked to the alleged scam.

SEXUAL ASSAULT ON TOURIST

Look at robust policy to regulate homestays: HC to tourism dept

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CONSIDERING the increasing importance of homestays and the recurring disputes brought before the court, the Karnataka High Court said it would be appropriate for the tourism department, in consultation with the departments concerned, to examine the feasibility of formulating a comprehensive policy and regulatory framework governing the establishment, operation, and supervision of homestays in the state.

"A regulatory framework would enhance tourist safety, promote confidence in Karnataka as a tourist destination, ensure uniformity in enforcement, reduce regulatory ambiguity, facilitate ease of compliance for operators, protect neighbouring communities, minimise avoidable litigation and foster sustainable growth of the tourism sector," the court noted.

Justice Suraj Govindaraj passed the order, while allowing the petition filed by the owner of a homestay in Kodagu district, challenging the order dated April 22, 2026, issued by the deputy commissioner and chairman of District Tourism Development Committee for cancellation of licence after a case of sexual assault on a US national.

The court passed the order as a show-cause notice. It permitted the petitioner to reply to it within two weeks. It said the authorities are permitted to pass necessary orders in accordance with the Karnataka Tourism Trade (Facilitation and Regulation) Act, 2015.

The court said it has, of late, been noticing an increasing number of disputes and petitions arising out of actions taken against homestays based on complaints received from tourists, neighbouring residents, local authorities and other stakeholders. The recurring nature of such disputes indicates the need for a more comprehensive and integrated regulatory framework governing homestays in the state, it ruled.

The court said the Karnataka Tourism Trade (Facilitation and Regulation) Act, 2015, provides for registration and regulation of tourism trade establishments, including homestays. However, the operation of a homestay involves numerous aspects which cannot be effectively addressed merely through Registration under the Act.

AIDSO members protest demanding the resignation of Union Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan over the alleged irregularities in NEET-UG, at Freedom Park, Bengaluru, on Wednesday | EXPRESS

NEET IRREGULARITIES: AIDSO SEEKS PRADHAN'S RESIGNATION

Bengaluru: Members of the All India Democratic Students' Organisation (AIDSO) staged a protest at the Freedom Park here on Wednesday demanding that Union Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan resign over the alleged irregularities in NEET-UG. They also demanded that the National Testing Agency (NTA) be dissolved and stringent action taken against those responsible for the alleged irregularities. Addressing the members, AIDSO state secretary Ajay Kamath alleged that NTA has become a "puppet in the hands of coaching mafias". Kamath said AIDSO had opposed introduction of NEET from the beginning despite claims that it will eliminate corruption in admissions. He pointed out that the coaching industry currently has an annual turnover of around ₹60,000 crore and it is expected to touch ₹1 lakh crore by 2030.

CM appoints personal rep in Delhi

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

In a notable administrative move, Chief Minister DK Shivakumar has appointed Jobin Joseph as his 'Personal Representative', in what appears to be the first such appointment in recent years. The conventional practice of state governments is to designate official representatives in the national capital.

Unlike the formal 'State Government's Special Representative in Delhi' position — previously held by senior Congress leader TB Jayachandra under the Siddaramaiah-led government, and MLA Appaji Nadagouda during the 2014-18 period — Joseph's role is personal. Sources indicate that it is on pro bono basis, meaning Joseph will serve without drawing a government salary or perquisites. He is expected to function out of the CM's office in New Delhi, providing DK Shivakumar a direct line of coordination with central agencies and political stakeholders in the capital. The unusual nature of the appointment has left political observers seeking clarity on the exact mandate attached to the position. While notifications have been issued, the distinction between a 'Personal Representative' operating from the CM's own Delhi office and the state's representative has triggered speculation about the style of governance and personal outreach under the current CM. In Karnataka's context, where coordination with Centre is often critical for funding, projects and policy clearances, such appointments can serve as important parallel channels. However, the pro bono and personal character of Joseph's role has raised questions about accountability and how it will interface with the official state machinery already present in Delhi.

11 deaths at Mysuru Jayadeva trigger panic

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

PANIC gripped residents across the Mysuru region following reports and viral social media videos claiming that 11 patients died of cardiac-related ailments within a span of 24 hours at the Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research in Mysuru. The incident has sparked widespread concern among the public, prompting the hospital administration and the state government to issue clarifications on the circumstances surrounding the deaths.

Confirming the deaths, hospital medical superintendent Dr Sadananda said most of the patients were critically ill and had reached the hospital well beyond the crucial "golden hour" after suffering heart attacks.

"Jayadeva is a tertiary-care referral centre and the only specialised cardiac hospital catering to patients from five districts in the region. We receive the most critical cases, many of whom are referred after their condition has deteriorated significantly. We do not refuse treatment to any patient," he said.

The deaths triggered concerns about the quality of care and availability of medical staff at the hospital. However, hospital authorities strongly denied allegations of negligence or shortage of doctors.

CM: Kerala backs PM Shri, but with conditions

Kerala's conditions

Eligible schools are identified by the states themselves and formally recommended to the Union Ministry of Education

The curriculum can follow the national framework or the state framework in accordance with the new curricular and pedagogical structure of the NEP

Kerala is already part of the PM SHRI scheme and the state would safeguard its rights

—VD Satheesan, Kerala Chief Minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @T'Puram

THE UDF government is "compelled" to continue with the PM SHRI (Pradhan Mantri Schools for Rising India) scheme as the previous LDF administration had signed an agreement with the Union government for its implementation and already availed Central funds under the programme, said Kerala Chief Minister VD Satheesan.

Satheesan said the state would implement PM SHRI on certain conditions. "We would ensure complete autonomy of the state in deciding the curriculum under the scheme, Also, the authority to select schools for implementing the scheme will also remain with the state government," Satheesan said. The CM said a Cabinet sub-committee had been constituted to study the matters related to the implementation of PM SHRI. The sub-committee, which will prepare the communication to be forwarded to the Union government, will have General Education Minister N Shamsudheen as the convenor and will consist of Higher Education Minister Roji M John, Tourism Minister PC Vishnunadh and Excise Minister M Liju as members. "Kerala is already part of the PM SHRI scheme and that the state would safeguard its rights and powers under the programme without compromising them in any manner," Satheesan said. He added that Kerala has received more than Rs 99 crore after joining the scheme, while an additional Rs 106 crore has also been sanctioned for the state.

The previous LDF government had kept away from the project for three years owing to its opposition to National Education Policy (NEP), however, it took a u-turn when Central funds under Samagra Shiksha project were kept on hold.

GAVE AUDIO OF CHINNA'S CALL TO SIT SAME DAY: PRAKASH RAJ

ACCORDING to Raj, before Mohanty took charge of SIT, he received a call from Mattannavar. "He told me that a man (linked to the case) wanted to speak to me. The person spoke in Tamil and I had heard that he was from Mandya. During the conversation, Chinna said he wanted to meet me. I asked him why he wanted to meet me and what information he had. I told him that SIT is already investigating the matter. I asked him to record whatever he knew and send it to me," Raj said.

He said soon after the phone call, he informed his lawyer about it and contacted Mohanty the same day. "I sought an appointment with him and personally handed over the recording. Mohanty thanked me for sharing that information and said it would be investigated," Raj said. A few days later, Raj said, he contacted Mohanty again to inquire about the progress of the probe. "Mohanty told me not to take any more calls. I have spoken to him (Chinna), but now he has changed his version. It is true that Chinna called me. I only wanted to know the truth in the Soujanya death case. I handed over all the information I had to SIT. I am a law-abiding citizen," Raj said.

Responding to allegations that he was anti-Hindu, Raj said, "Certain sections of the media made such claims. I have met Veerendra Heggade. He is a wonderful person. People who have no affection for Dharmasthala have twisted my statements. There is no political motive behind my questions." Several reports claimed that Rs 200 crore had been invested from Kerala to defame Dharmasthala.

"I do not know whether Chinna actually made such a statement or not, but many media houses have reported it. At the same time, some sections of the media have written judgmental stories about how much money Prakash Raj received and branded me as anti-Hindu," he said.

'Questioning BJP is not questioning Hindu dharma'

On the allegations of being anti-Hindu, Prakash Raj sought to know why his critics focused on his views instead of raising concerns about larger issues such as financial irregularities and human rights violations.

He said whenever he raised issues such as demonetisation, delimitation, price rise and governance, he was labelled as anti-Hindu. He alleged that certain groups were more interested in targeting him rather than addressing issues affecting the people. He said BJP is a political party and questioning a political party is not the same as questioning Hindu dharma. "Narendra Modi is an elected representative from Varanasi. His party is in majority in the Lok Sabha and elected him as PM. Questioning PM Modi is not questioning Hindutva," he said.

Will join anti-Bidadi township stir: Prakash

Actor Prakash Raj said that he will participate in the protest against the proposed Greater Bengaluru Integrated Township (GBIT), also known as Bidadi township project, after studying the issue in detail.

Raj said he had participated in several protests in the past and will take part in this agitation also. Before joining the agitation, he will first study the issue thoroughly and also those leading it, he added.

"We live in a world where there is more and more information, and less and less meaning" — Jean Baudrillard

INDIAN EXPRESS IS NOT AN INDUSTRY. IT IS A MISSION.

— Ramnath Goenka

AS RAINFALL DEFICIT SPREADS, REWORK CROP STRATEGIES, BUILD LONG-TERM RESILIENCE

AS El Niño conditions strengthen in the Pacific, India's monsoon is showing signs of strain across a dozen states. By mid-June, rainfall is about 35 percent below the normal nationwide, and central India faces a sharp 63 percent shortfall. The monsoon's advance has stalled across much of Maharashtra, while Mumbai is closely monitoring its reservoir levels as the supplies are expected to last only around 45 days if the conditions persist. In the south, Tamil Nadu farmers are unsure about planting Kuruvai rice because dam storage is low, while reduced Cauvery flows at the Karnataka border are unsettling others. The weather office has stated that early-June deficits do not decide the whole season, but there is now a nearly 60 percent chance of a poor monsoon, which is a serious worry for the whole nation.

The next 6-8 weeks will be crucial. The Centre is working with states to launch crop-specific backup plans, but execution must be on a war footing. Short-duration, drought-resistant seeds must reach vulnerable districts quickly, along with clear advice for farmers on what to plant, when. At the same time, MGNREGA funds should go towards cleaning tanks, repairing canals and improving groundwater recharging before the monsoon reaches its peak. More than just issuing warnings, city administrations should focus on finding leaks, managing demand and planning for emergency water supplies.

Still, emergency actions can only provide short-term relief. India's main weakness is its heavy reliance on the short monsoon season. In the next few years, a national task force should focus on water budgeting at the district level, expanding micro-irrigation and encouraging farmers in dry areas to grow less water-intensive crops. Groundwater use in overdrawn areas needs stricter rules, and cities and industries should be required to treat and reuse wastewater at scale.

As climate change intensifies, the real long-term fix would be to restore neglected water systems. In 2023, the government's first water-body census counted over 2.4 million lakes, tanks and ponds; but many are still encroached, polluted or neglected. Restoring these over the next decade would create a storage network and help manage droughts. Along with watershed development, recharging of aquifers and widespread rainwater harvesting, this would make the country much more resilient. But for now, the top priorities are protecting crops, saving water and keeping food inflation in check.

PREVENTION OF ELDER ABUSE NEEDS ALL-SOCIETY APPROACH

AS India is greying at a faster clip, it is witnessing a worrying rise in the abuse of elders. A recent study across 10 states showed an almost two-thirds rise in the mistreatment of this vulnerable population in a year, with own families emerging as the biggest perpetrators. The data revealed the pains of growing old in a society that is uncaring of those it considers unfit and financially dependent. This harsh reality is also reflected in the sharp rise in distress calls to the elders' helpline in India's tech capital, Bengaluru—up from 735 in 2024-25 to 1,172 in 2025-26. Yet this is only a part of the picture as elder abuse mostly goes unreported, with stigma a strong deterrent.

The World Elder Abuse Awareness Day, observed this Monday, focused on finding systemic solutions. Among the steps India can rightly claim to have taken in that direction is enacting the Maintenance and Welfare of Parents and Senior Citizens (Amendment) Act, 2019, which updated the 2007 legislation to widen the set of those liable for care and raise the levels of prescribed punishment. Dedicated tribunals have been set up to address complaints under the law. Jurisprudence has evolved to widen the definition of abuse and the actions parents can take.

But these are systems for redress. Prevention, on the other hand, needs a whole-of-society approach. The Union health and family welfare ministry has recognised the breakdown of traditional family structures as a leading cause of elderly distress. Planning for financial and physical independence within nuclear families can go some way in addressing the fraying societal net. Free, high-quality healthcare would go even longer in restoring dignity. All other states can learn from Kerala, which offers a model of free insurance and mobile clinics, besides psychological and community support for elders. Governments also need to make it easier to access pension and normalise civic infrastructure aimed specifically at helping elders lead a dignified life. These can no longer be on a distant wish-list, as the reality is changing fast. By the time the independent nation hits its century, every one in five Indians will be aged 60 or above—up from one in every eight today. If not for the sake of humanity and decency, politicians should mind that it will be a formidable voting bloc, too.

QUICK TAKE

IN A DIFFERENT LIGHT

AS the world looked for substantive measures from the leaders of the largest economies gathered in the French spa town of Évian-les-Bains for the G7 summit, tidbits of conversation captured on hot mic revealed that they are, after all, mere mortals. The chats ranged from exchanges on the football World Cup, with robust support shown by Keir Starmer for England, to the cage-fight Donald Trump is hosting on the White House lawns to commemorate 250 years of pushing the English back across the Pond. There was even a lesson for those trying to kick an addiction. When Giorgia Meloni, 49, told a gaggle of leaders that she quit smoking a month ago, the British premier noted he did so in his early 40s. Shows there's no age to quit a harmful habit.

Weak intra-party bonding, lack of distinctive ideology and electors' indifference have made it easier to break parties. The fate of popular movements that become electoral entities remains mixed

LESSONS FROM MAKING & BREAKING OF POLITICAL PARTIES

VINAY SAHASRABUDDHE
Senior BJP leader

THE chain of events underscoring the pan-India impact of the West Bengal verdict refuses to halt. Some leaders are understandably worried that their parties are breaking, while some others are busy in making new ones. In such a turbulent time, what is being ignored is our abysmal neglect towards the institutionalisation of political parties—a process all democratic societies must address.

To start with, one wonders whether we really need so many political parties. Consider this: we have six national parties, 67 state parties and 2,854 registered parties unrecognised in either of the other categories. Such a bumper crop makes one thing clear: our laws make establishing a political party an unserious exercise, even promoting a frivolous approach.

Forget the also-rans; even most of the recognised national and state parties are bereft of any clear ideology, well thought-out policy perspectives, defined organisational structure and proper framework for functioning. Obviously then, questions just don't come up about conducting regular meetings of party executive bodies, making efforts at cadre building, or organising their training. Our existing laws are silent on the ways and means of running a political party, even while making their formation almost a child's play. No wonder then that, with the sole exception of the BJP, most other recognised political parties have faced vertical splits.

It's insightful to understand why parties break. Heavy dependence on a single dynasty, lack of any ideology or a sense of purpose, deterioration of organisational bonding and, above all, the absence of deterrence to defection in the form of popular opinion are the factors responsible. India is no exception in this—these factors are at play in almost the entire democratic world.

First, let's talk about dynasty. If we accept that dynastic parties are here to stay, then we also have to accept that our democracy is in for facing endless challenges. The most dynastic parties—from the Congress, NCP, Trinamool, TDP, Shiv Sena, Samajwadi Party and DMK to the various Janata Dals and even Akali Dal—have faced vertical splits of varying degrees of seriousness. Such parties are bound to face fragmentation as no dynastic succession has ever been free from competition and consequent confrontation.

When a dynasty dominates, ideology takes a back-seat. And parties bereft of ideology hamper the very cause of democracy as they take away the element of choice almost completely.

SOURAV ROY

It's a worry that political parties are increasingly losing their distinctive characteristics. Two decades back, Bruno Waterfield, Brussels correspondent for a British newspaper, had commented that parties in the West offered almost no competing alternatives. He portrayed politicians as careerists, an empty cadre of elite manager-politicians and described them as "identikit managers of a cut-and paste age"! In a situation like this, what sense of purpose for party functionaries can we talk about?

Parties are breaking also because there is little loyalty—to an ideology as well as an organisation. Allegiance to a leader was always temporary. But the transactional relationship between the cadre and a leader has eroded emotional bonds within an organisation.

Earlier, most political parties were born out of a social or political movement. It was during these movements that activists used to develop camaraderie and fellow-feeling. Today, precious little remains in political parties to bind an individual in a way that would make the very thought of defection dreadful.

Nuances in styles of functioning shape organisational ethos, which in turn determines a party's culture. At present, most major political parties have similar organisational cultures, hence no outfit is truly alien to a politician. This factor has made defections much easier.

Add to this the absence of any deterrence in public opinion in a constituency, and the crisis becomes acute. The relationship of an elector with the elected has also become extremely transactional. This has added to the 'ease of defection', leading to seamless splits.

The nature of party-people interfaces has undergone drastic changes. Professionally-managed parties leave little scope for volunteers to spare time for party work. The professional approach in party management has also altered the nature of inter-party relationships. At times, it involves fierce hate-mongering whereas, on other occasions, it just remains make-believe, with an element of match-fixing. The popular belief that all politicians are hand-in-glove with each other has not helped prevent the increasing tendency of intense dislike towards the entire political class.

While parties break for many such reasons, the making of one remains a supremely daunting task. Now that many are speculating on the formation of a Gen Z party, one must remember that there are several examples of how non-political groups in India realise sooner than later that the limitations to their NGO-like efforts could be overcome only through the formation of a political party.

The latest example is that of Arvind Kejriwal. Before that, in 2004, Medha Patkar of the Narmada Bachao Andolan and her colleagues decided to take their battle to the electoral arena and fight elections as an independent political party. In 2006, Dr Jayaprakash Narayana converted his NGO, Lok Satta, into a political party.

Earlier, in the mid-1970s, the Navnirman Yuvak Samiti, which had spearheaded a popular drive to oust Chimanbhai Patel's government in Gujarat as well as the Sampurna Kranti movement led by Lok Nayak Jayaprakash Narayan had formed political parties to fight elections. The All Assam Students Union that led the state's anti-infiltration (of Bangladeshis) movement in the 1980s, later established the Asom Gana Parishad to contest elections.

Organisations like Samyukta Maharashtra Samiti and Shetkari Sanghatana, both from Maharashtra, were not established as political parties. But they later thought it wise to contest elections. However, neither Anna Hazare or student-movement-born parties like the All Jharkhand Students Union could endure as political entities.

The reasons for parties breaking or failures in party-making are not far to seek. Unless and until parties equip themselves with clear ideologies, crystallised policy perspectives and lofty ideals that serve as a source of motivation, and structured efforts to build cadres through healthy interpersonal relations with leaders, nobody can prevent the breaking of older outfits or the making of newer ones.

CARTOGRAPHY OF INDIA'S FUTURE

C P SURENDRAN
Author whose latest volume of poetry is Window with a Train Attached

IN his one-paragraph fable 'On Exactitude in Science', Jorge Luis Borges imagines an empire whose cartographers become so obsessed with accuracy that they produce a map as large as the empire itself. It matches the territory point for point. The result is a masterpiece that nobody can use. Borges's point is simple: every map leaves something out. When a map claims to represent everything, it stops helping us understand where we are.

In India, we now live with two such maps. One is drawn by the cartographer of dreams, Narendra Modi. The other is sketched by Rahul Gandhi, who sees in the same dreams the makings of a nightmare. These maps are laid over the same territory, and yet they do not line up. The result is a peculiar double vision: we inhabit two countries at once and are at home in neither.

Modi's map is bright with ambition, infrastructure and civilisational purpose. He claims to have lifted India from an era of drift into an era of execution. Roads, bridges, expressways, factories, digital payments and welfare schemes all form part of a narrative in which "stability and development at an unprecedented speed and scale" have replaced the instability and "misgovernance" of earlier regimes.

What makes Modi's map attractive is not merely its optimism but its legibility. Roads lead somewhere. Airports appear where there were none. The citizen can point to a bridge, a welfare transfer, or a railway station and say: there, that is the future. The map offers destinations. It tells Indians not merely where they are, but where they are headed.

Rahul Gandhi's map is dominated by institutional decay and ecological loss. He sees a democracy in which "the BJP controls the institutions of the State... the legal system... the bureaucracy... the intelligence agencies" and even the Election Commission. The distance between election and selection, he argues, is shrinking. Level playing fields are history.

Yet the difficulty for Rahul Gandhi is not that his map is necessarily false. It is that a map made entirely of hazards is difficult to follow. A traveller may wish to know where the swamps and cliffs are, but he also wants to know where the road leads. Gandhi identifies dangers that many independent observers would acknowledge, but he struggles to show citizens what lies beyond the warning signs.

You could say the problem is also one of persuasion. Rahul Gandhi, for all his courage, may never be Prime Minister; he is like the salesman who turns up at your door and tells you the vacuum cleaner he is offering probably will not work. A moment later, Modi appears with the same machine and sells you

PICRYL

Jorge Luis Borges wrote a famous fable on a 1:1 map that covered the entire land. In a way, our leaders are also offering us maps to cover the India of our imagination. One is about roads to a shiny future, the other about hazards to avoid two by showing you an image of your soon-to-be spotless house. The first model requires effort—you, the citizen, must roll up your sleeves and resist, organise and demand accountability. The second offers something closer to the ideal: buy the product and trust the company.

'Bharat' was recently represented at an innovation jamboree in Nice, where the leaders of India and France jointly inaugurated 'Bharat Innovates 2026', a showcase for Indian startups and venture capital. As a reasonable citizen of this cartographic wonderland, one might be forgiven for asking: what exactly have we innovated that is not packaging and scale? Yet, the spectacle works. Modi is an effective peddler of this dream.

Rahul Gandhi's latest map, outlined in his speech to the INDIA bloc partners on June 8, is harder to inhabit. He spoke of "unity and resistance" and compared today's unequal playing field to the colonial period. He may be substantially right. There is mounting evidence, from Great Nicobar to the managed dismantlement of opposition parties, that the system is skewed. Yet his own allies—Mamata Banerjee, Akhilesh Yadav and others—do not fully buy the argument that every defeat is the product of rigging. To admit that would be to accept the need for something like a sustained civil disobedience movement. Nobody is ready for it.

This is a country whose political culture is built on inertia. We are a civilisation more comfortable with meditation than mediation. Passive resistance—Mahatma Gandhi's great insight—suited us because it allowed for the grace of restraint without constant confrontation. As new entrants like the Cockroach Janta Party discover, even mobilising the much-hyped Gen Z is hard.

The poor, who might once have been the natural constituency for street politics, have seen their anger blunted by welfare. People remain poor, but they are not destitute in quite the same way. Welfare is both a genuine gain and an effective tranquilliser. Ironically, Rahul Gandhi has also been a strong advocate of this model, from NYAY (Nyuntam Aay Yojana or minimum income scheme) to a more generous safety net, which means his own politics co-opts the very constituency that might otherwise be tempted by insurrection. The clientele for his cartography has been neutralised by the policies he supports.

In Borges's story, the perfect map ends up in shreds, an object of pity in the desert. Our two Indian maps are nowhere near perfect, but they compete to cover every inch of the India of our imagination. Perhaps the country awaits the arrival of another cartographer, another map.

PM calls for safety net for Global South

Warns that disruptions in critical global corridors disproportionately affecting developing economies in the world

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday urged global financial institutions to establish stronger support mechanisms to help countries in the Global South withstand economic shocks triggered by geopolitical crises, particularly the ongoing West Asia conflict and its impact on fuel, fertiliser, and food supply chains.

Speaking at an outreach session of the G7 Summit in France, Modi warned that disruptions in critical global corridors were disproportionately affecting developing economies. "The impact of the West Asian crisis on fuel, fertiliser and food supply chains will have long-lasting consequences for the Global South," he said and added that "the most vulnerable countries should not bear the burden of crises on their own." Prime Minister said international institutions must be more responsive to external shocks affecting developing economies.

Modi stressed on the need to reimagine global connectivity through inclusive partnerships. Drawing on the India-Middle East-Europe Economic Corridor (IMEC), he proposed expanding similar initiatives across Africa, Latin America and the Pacific Islands. "Like the vision of IMEC, can we work on connectivity projects with countries in Africa, Latin America and the Pacific Islands?" Modi asked. He suggested a new framework titled the International Mobilisation Partnership for Accelerating Connectivity and Trade (IMPACT), bringing together G7 capital, India's talent pool, and ownership of Global South nations.

"By combining G7 capital, India's talent and the ownership of Global South countries, we may also consider establishing an International Mobilisation Partnership for Accelerating Connectivity and Trade (IMPACT)," he said, pitching it as a mechanism to accelerate infrastructure development and trade linkages across emerging regions. Modi also highlighted the demographic imbalance between ageing advanced economies and younger developing nations saying, "Today, many societies are becoming ageing societies while India and other countries of the Global South have abundance of young talent, entrepreneurship and skills," he said, calling for a Global Skills Partnership to enable structured skill mapping and trusted mobility of workers.

The outreach session brought together India, Brazil, Egypt, Kenya, and South Korea as invited partner countries alongside G7 leaders.

India & EU aim to seal free trade deal by yr-end

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

INDIA and the European Union have set an ambitious target to conclude a long-pending Free Trade Agreement (FTA) by the end of the year, European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen said after talks with Prime Minister Narendra Modi on the sidelines of the G7 Summit in France on Wednesday. Describing accelerated progress in negotiations, von der Leyen said both sides were moving quickly to finalise commitments and expand cooperation beyond trade. "Since we have concluded the mother of all trade deals, we have been moving fast to deliver on our commitments. We will sign the Free Trade Agreement by the end of the year," she said. She added that India and the EU would also broaden strategic cooperation.

The meeting, also attended by European Council President Antonio Costa, came months after both sides announced the conclusion of FTA talks in principle earlier this year in New Delhi. The push for deeper EU engagement with India comes amid widening geopolitical uncertainty, with both sides seeking to anchor economic ties in a more structured strategic framework.

Modi also highlighted momentum in India's trade diplomacy following his meeting with British PM Keir Starmer. "A historic milestone for India-UK relations," Modi said, and pointed out that the India-UK Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement will enter into force on July 15.

Modi also held talks with German Chancellor Friedrich Merz focusing on expanding cooperation in trade, defence, investment and IT. He also met South Korean President Lee Jae-myung.

House panel urges govt to increase spending on education to 6% of GDP

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

EXPRESSING concern over the current allocation for higher education, a parliamentary panel has recommended that spending on education be increased to 6% of GDP as envisaged under the National Education Policy (NEP).

The Parliamentary Standing Committee on Education, Women, Children, Youth and Sports, headed by Digvijaya Singh, on Tuesday presented its 381st action-taken report on the recommendations contained in the 364th report on demands for grants (2025-26) pertaining to the higher education department to Rajya Sabha Chairman C P Radhakrishnan.

The committee noted that the percentage increase in the department's budget estimates (BE) for 2025-26 vis-a-vis that of 2024-25 was lower than the last year. "The committee feels that in view of the inflationary trends, the allocation should increase at least 8% to 10% to accommodate inflation, maintain the existing standards for expenditure by the department of higher education, and to avoid decline in actual allocation/expenditure for the higher education sector," the report said.

It also flagged exam irregularities despite measures taken by the government, and recommended that the education ministry publish a time-bound roadmap for implementing reforms suggested by a panel.

The committee noted that the gross enrolment ratio of males and females during 2018-2023 has not registered significant growth for employment and optimal development of human resources. "The Committee, therefore, recommends that the percentage of expenditure should be enhanced further in consonance with the NEP-2020's targets for 2035," it said.

Taking note of the NEP, which "endorses a substantial increase in public investment in education by both the Centre and state governments to reach 6% of GDP", the panel expressed concern that total expenditure on education stood at 4.12% of GDP in 2021-22. It noted Bhutan and Maldives spent 7.47% and 4.67% of their GDP in 2022.

CJI calls cyber criminals 'parasites', says they must be locked in prisons

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

DENYING bail to an accused in a cyber fraud case, the Supreme Court on Wednesday termed cyber criminals "parasites" who cheat people of huge amounts and said society's interest lies in keeping them in custody (behind bars) during the trial.

"You guys (cyber fraudsters) are parasites who dupe investors of crores of rupees. With cybercriminals we have to be very harsh. Your victims are always pan-Indians. You cheat someone in Tamil Nadu then you go to Jammu...Society's interest is only that you should be inside jail", said a partial-working day bench led by the Chief Justice of India Surya Kant while dismissing the plea.

The bench, also comprising Justices Sudhanshu Dhulia and Sandeep Mehta, turned down the bail plea of the man arrested for allegedly cheating multiple victims through fake banking portals and phishing links. The alleged fraud in the case is over ₹3 crore.

"These are parasites who misuse technology to loot ordinary citizens. Such crimes shake public confidence in digital transactions. Keeping them behind bars serves the larger societal interest," the bench remarked.

The petitioner had moved the apex court seeking bail, citing long detention and the fact that co-accused had been granted bail by the High Court. On the other hand, the Delhi Police opposed the bail plea by calling him the "mastermind" of an interstate racket who evaded arrest for months.

The court observed that probe findings showed a network of mule bank accounts, SIM cards obtained on forged documents, and systematic laundering of funds.

"Economic offences like these are premeditated and cause deep harm to society. They stand on a different footing from other crimes," the bench noted. While declining bail, the court said delay in trial cannot be a ground for release given the gravity of allegations. It asked the trial court to finish the case within a year.

Shah for use of AI to crack cyber crimes

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah on Wednesday directed modernisation of the National Cyber Crime Helpline 1930 and integration of artificial intelligence (AI) and advanced technologies with it to strengthen the country's cyber crime response system. He issued the directions at a review meeting in the national capital.

Describing the 1930 helpline as a crucial platform for citizens to report cyber crimes conveniently, Shah stressed that every complainant must receive prompt support. He underscored that no complaint should remain unattended or pending and directed officials to further improve efficiency.

The home minister instructed officials that the helpline be upgraded through the adoption of advanced technologies, including AI, to facilitate faster complaint registration, intelligent call routing and more effective grievance management. He said the revamped system should significantly enhance service delivery and response capabilities for citizens affected by cyber crimes.

Shah said that the Centre was committed of building a secure, technology-driven and citizen-centric cyber security framework. He told officials that the 1930 call centres, operating across states and Union territories, be strengthened through improved technological and operational upgrades.

Home Minister Amit Shah reviews cybercrime helpline in New Delhi on Wednesday | PTI

The Union Ministry of Home Affairs will provide support for hardware and technology enhancements for the helpline framework, while the states and UTs will be asked to ensure adequate staffing at call centres. Shah asked officials to leverage interactive software systems, especially for voice response, at the call centres. This feature can help ensure easy transfer of calls to the relevant authorities without troubling the complainant to locate them, the ministry said.

The minister also ordered the creation of a national call centre within the 1930 framework that will address complaints that remain unanswered at the state level.

The meeting also reviewed the performance of the Citizen Financial Cyber Fraud Reporting and Management System (CFCFRMS), a key initiative of the Union home ministry aimed at tackling cyber financial fraud. The platform enables prompt blocking of fraudulent financial transactions through the banking network, which increases the chances of securing and restoring funds to victims.

Shah noted that the Union home ministry had issued a standard operating procedure (SOP) in January to accelerate the resolution of cyber financial fraud cases. The SOP provides a coordinated framework involving banks, financial institutions, law enforcement agencies and other stakeholders to facilitate the early return of blocked funds to victims. He pointed out that the Supreme Court has directed all high courts to ensure the implementation of the SOP.

During the review, the home minister also called for regular monitoring of the Money Restoration Module and the Grievance Redressal Module developed under the CFCFRMS. He said that state governments should track the implementation of these modules to ensure speedy complaint resolution.

Shah further directed that swift action be taken in cases involving unnecessarily frozen bank accounts and stressed the need to fix accountability in such instances. According to officials, nearly one lakh citizens have so far benefited from the money restoration and grievance redressal mechanisms.

Officials informed the meeting that around 94 lakh bank accounts, from which funds could potentially be restored, have been uploaded under the money restoration and grievance redressal framework.

21 mn hectares of land restored, goal achieved

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

INDIA successfully achieved its initial Bonn Challenge target of restoring over 21.76 million hectares (mha) of degraded and deforested land, saving it from desertification, and is on track to meet the second target of restoring an additional 5 mha by 2030.

Environment Minister Bhupender Yadav announced the details on Wednesday at the release of "India's Second Progress Report on the Bonn Challenge: 2011—2020 Assessment of Progress in Restoration Efforts Across the States and Union Territories".

The Bonn Challenge, launched in 2011, is a global effort to restore 150 mha of degraded and deforested land by 2020 and 350 mha by 2030. It translates international climate and biodiversity commitments into on-the-ground action. Yadav, at an event to commemorate the World Day to Combat Desertification and Drought, highlighted that land restoration not only protects the environment but also generates over 1.22 billion person-days of employment.

In 2015, India undertook one of Asia's largest pledges, aiming to restore 13 million hectares of degraded and deforested land by 2020 and an additional eight million hectares by 2030.

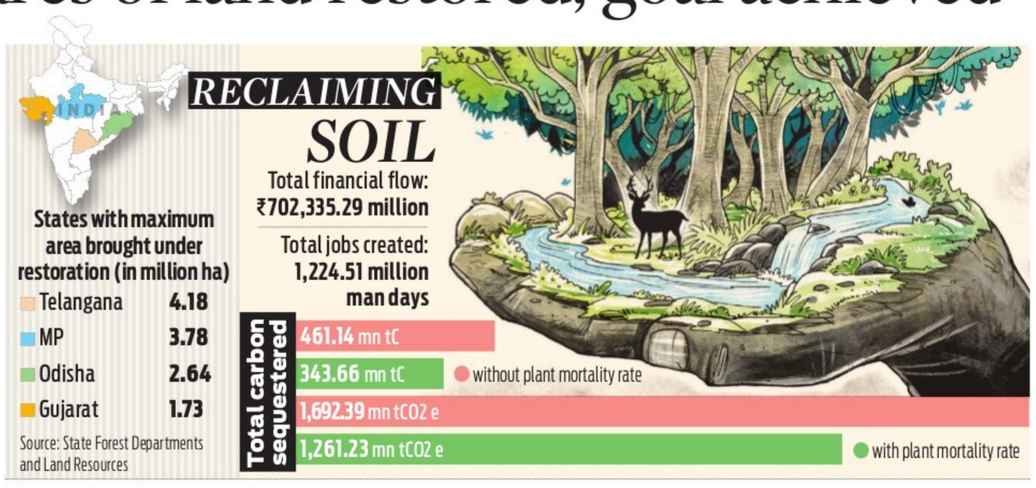
India's 2030 target has since been enhanced to 26 million hectares. Prime Minister Narendra Modi declared the intent to meet the restoration target during COP 14 of the United Nations Convention to Combat Desertification (UNCCD), held in September 2019. Over the past decade, India has taken promising steps to realise this ambitious vision.

Among states, Telangana tops the table in restoring degraded and deforested land, followed by Madhya Pradesh, Odisha and Gujarat.

The minister highlighted that more than 27 million hectares have been treated under the watershed development component of the Pradhan Mantri Krishi Sinchayee Yojana has created over 61.3 million geo-tagged natural resource management assets.

"Greening and restoration activities have been undertaken across around 1.7 lakh hectares under the Green India Mission, while afforestation has been carried out over around 3.20 lakh hectares through CAMPA-supported (Compensatory Afforestation Fund Management and Planning Authority) activities during the past five years," he said.

The Bonn Challenge report documents restoration efforts across states and Union territories, highlights their ecological and socio-economic benefits, and reflects India's continued efforts towards forest landscape restoration, land degradation neutrality, and ecosystem resilience.



AIR should run hyperlocal content to reach large section of people: Vaishnaw

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE public service broadcaster Akashvani is to place greater emphasis on hyperlocal content as part of its ongoing transformation into a more modern and audience-centric platform. Highlighting Akashvani's move towards a hyperlocal content model, information and broadcasting minister Ashwini Vaishnaw, during his visit to Pune on Wednesday, said that under the new initiative, the broadcaster would deliver content which is closely connected with local communities and their aspirations.

The initiative aims to strengthen Akashvani's connection with listeners by delivering content that reflects regional concerns and grassroots realities. The proposed shift towards hyperlocal programming is expected to enhance community engagement and reinforce Akashvani's role as a trusted source of information at the grassroots level.

Vaishnaw said the transformation of Akashvani is being undertaken in line with PM Narendra Modi's vision to make public broadcasting more digital, accessible and responsive to audience preferences.

Local connect

The initiative aims to strengthen Akashvani's connection with listeners by delivering content that reflects regional concerns and grassroots realities. The proposed shift towards hyperlocal programming is expected to enhance community engagement.

Addressing concerns over regional news services, the minister assured that the Marathi news bulletin of Akashvani Pune would continue. He said the bulletin plays an important role in the government's public outreach efforts and serves listeners across Maharashtra.

The minister recently visited several Akashvani and Doordarshan Kendras, where he interacted with young officers, reporters and employees. Interactions were aimed at understanding their perspectives and incorporating their inputs into the future roadmap of public broadcasting.

All India Radio India (AIR), also known as Akashvani, operates under the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting and is the radio vertical of Prasar Bharati.

Speaking at the inauguration of the 20 kW Akashvani FM Transmitter at Ramgarh in Jaisalmer last week, Vaishnaw called for a transformation in the functioning and outlook of Prasar Bharati. He emphasised that in the era of rapid technological advancement, radio broadcasting must adopt a "digital first" and "hyper-local" approach to remain relevant and impactful. He also directed officials to prepare a roadmap for this and stressed the importance of integrating local artists and artisans into the broadcasting ecosystem.

Maximum City has only 40 days of water left, major curbs enforced

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

A combination of delayed monsoon arrival, zero rainfall in key catchment areas this season, and rapid depletion of reservoir storage—exacerbated by El Niño conditions—has pushed Mumbai's seven-lake water supply system to a critical threshold, with the water stock effectively nearing the bottom level and leaving only about 40 days of supply for the city, according to the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC).

According to the BMC's hydraulic department, only 9.33 percent of the drinking water available comes from four major lakes—Upper Vaitarna, Modak Sagar, Tansa, and Middle Vaitarna—that supply water to Mumbai. This is lower than last year's 12.27 percent during the same period, and also below the 2024 level of 10.24 percent storage in city lakes.

Officials said the delay in the monsoon's arrival, coupled with the continuous depletion of water storage and no rainfall in the catchment areas so far this year, has become a serious cause for concern for the city. The hydraulic department has warned that the present 9.33 percent water stock in the catchments will be sufficient for just under six weeks of demand.

Seven lakes and reservoirs contribute to Mumbai's drinking water supply system—Tansa, Vihar, Tulsi, Bhatsa, Upper Vaitarna, Modak Sagar, and Middle Vaitarna. Of these, four are owned by the BMC, while the remaining are under the state government, which releases a portion of water for Mumbai's requirements.

Collectively, these catchment areas have seen water storage deplete to 1,44,918 million cubic litres this year. The BMC currently supplies around 3950 million litres per day (MLD) of drinking water to the city.

The civic body said it is handling the situation with caution. On May 15, the BMC began implementing a 10 percent water cut, reducing the daily supply from 3950–4100 MLD to approximately 3,650 MLD.

The hydraulic department further revealed that Upper Vaitarna has reached dead stock level, while other reservoirs show varying storage conditions—Modak Sagar at 29 percent, Tansa at 4.71%, Middle Vaitarna at 10.34%, Bhatsa at 9.24%, Vihar at 42.11%, and Tulsi at 23.06%. Last year, the catchment areas received 101 mm of rainfall, whereas this year there has been zero rainfall in the same regions that feed Mumbai's drinking water system.

As a precautionary measure, the BMC has warned of action against the misuse and wastage of water, citing the delayed monsoon caused by El Niño conditions and the depletion of dam levels across the Mumbai Metropolitan Region.

Apart from imposing a water cut, several other austerity measures have been implemented to conserve drinking water. These include cutting water supply connections at all ongoing construction sites, suspending approvals for new construction water connections, and temporarily disconnecting water supply to all swimming pools. The BMC has also imposed a 20 percent water cut on supply to industrial, commercial, and sports club establishments. The Water Resources Department and the BMC have jointly begun enforcing stricter water management measures.

Authorities have further directed that organisations managing public toilets and restrooms must maximise the use of tanker or borewell water to conserve drinking water. For all non-drinking purposes, maximum reliance should be placed on wells, tube wells, and borewells. Specifically, borewell or well water must be used for washing vehicles, watering gardens, and cleaning roads and premises.

Delhi officer ahead in race for top cop post

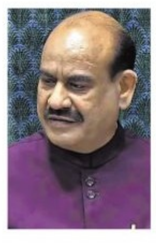
Speculation over the next Ahmedabad Police Commissioner has intensified following the appointment of IPS G S Malik as Gujarat DGP. While no official confirmation has emerged, strong indications from developments in Delhi suggest that a Gujarat-cadre IPS officer currently on central deputation could soon return and take charge of Ahmedabad Police. The possibility has gained traction within administrative circles, even as the names of several officers posted across Gujarat are being discussed. However, the prospect of a last-minute surprise cannot be ruled out.

Speaker says he will hear Abhishek side on June 19

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

LOK Sabha Speaker Om Birla on Wednesday invited Trinamool Congress leader Abhishek Banerjee for a meeting on June 19 to hear his case on the split in the former Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee-led party, parliamentary sources said.

TMC sources said the party got an email from the Speaker's office at 5 pm on Wednesday. The development comes amid a demand by 20 rebel TMC MPs to recognise them as a separate group after their merger with the Nationalist Citizens Party of India (NCPI). Birla has decided to hear both factions before taking a call. On Sunday, the dissident group led by Kakoli Ghosh Dastidar met him and said they had merged with NCPI and claimed the support of 20 MPs.



On June 10, Abhishek wrote to Birla urging him not to accord any recognition, status or facility to any group claiming to be a separate faction of the TMC. He asserted that the Constitution and anti-defection law do not permit the formation of a separate group within an existing political party.

"Treat Trinamool as a single political party represented in the House solely through its duly authorised leader and whip, and decline to accord any recognition, status or facility to any purported separate group or faction," he said.

'Op Tiger' likely to boost Shinde Sena stake in NDA

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

AFTER the Operation Tiger becomes successful, Maharashtra Deputy Chief Minister Eknath Shinde's position in the NDA will be strengthened. Sources said Shinde is likely to set his eyes on the CM post that eluded him after the BJP emerged as the single-largest party in the state in the 2024 assembly polls.

Shinde-led Sena has seven Lok Sabha MPs and the number will rise to 13 after six rebel MPs of Uddhav Thackeray-led Shiv Sena (UBT) merge with his party. The Shinde-led Sena will be the largest party in Maharashtra in terms Lok Sabha MPs. The BJP has seven MPs from the state.

Sources said that after Operation Tiger, Shinde has planned to carry out another poaching operation for Sena (UBT) MLAs. "Out of the 20 Shiv Sena (UBT) MLAs, Shinde eyes 15," a source said. "Once the two operations are carried out, the political position of Eknath Shinde will get strengthened in the state and at the Centre. There is also speculation that Shinde plans another operation for the NCP (SP) Lok Sabha MPs. So, Shinde will bounce back and ask for the CM post as a reward for strengthening the NDA and weakening the Opposition," the source said, requesting anonymity. He added that there is speculation within the BJP that in Union Cabinet reshuffle, the top leadership may ask Devendra Fadnavis, a young face, to vacate the CM chair for Shinde and be part of PM Narendra Modi's ministry.

"Young faces are missing in the BJP government at the Centre. Besides, the anger of the young people, mostly GenZ, against the government is growing on social media due to paper leaks and other youth issues. Therefore, CM Fadnavis and other young faces would be given an opportunity to change the average age of the Union cabinet. Shinde is sensing an opportunity here," a leader said.

Rahul slams edu system in Kota, kicks off protest

LoP says 5 exams cost families as much as budgets of five ministries

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

CONGRESS leader Rahul Gandhi used a major youth outreach programme in Rajasthan's Kota on Wednesday to launch a critique of the education system. He said students and their families spend enormous amounts on competitive examinations, while receiving little assurance on the quality of education or employment.

Addressing thousands of students at the "Chhatro ki Goonj" programme, Gandhi described the education model as a "rejection system, not a selection system", claiming it affects the aspiration of young people, instead of helping them pursue their interests and talents.

The event held in Kota, known as India's coaching capital, focused on issues like competitive exams, paper leaks, unemployment and the pressures faced by students. Gandhi said that the gathering was not a political programme, but an attempt to listen to the concerns of the country's youth.

Drawing attention to the financial burden of entrance examinations, Gandhi claimed that families of NEET aspirants collectively spend around ₹1.32 lakh crore every year on coaching, fees and related expenses, an amount he said is comparable to the Union government's education budget.

He cited figures related to five major examinations—SSC, UPSC, RRB, JEE and NEET—and claimed that students preparing for these tests spend nearly ₹3.5 lakh crore annually. According to Gandhi, this expenditure is equivalent to the combined budgets allocated by the Centre to the ministries dealing with women and child development, labour, education, health and science.

"The system takes huge amounts of money from families, and then shuts the door on most students," he said. He questioned whether the existing model genuinely creates opportunities for young Indians.

He also argued that the education system limits career choices by encouraging students to pursue only a handful of professions, such as medicine, engineering, civil services, law and the armed forces.

In one of the most emotional moments of the programme, Gandhi displayed the suicide note of a NEET aspirant Akanksha Chaturvedi, who committed suicide. Gandhi said, "This is not good for the country. I want all of us to work together to ensure that no student ever feels what this girl felt." He said, students should not be made to feel responsible for systemic failures. He urged policymakers to create an environment where young people can pursue their dreams without fear or extreme pressure.

BJP leader Rajendra Rathore dismissed the event as a political spectacle and accused Congress of attempting to mislead students.

Gehlot, Pilot appear together, share warm exchange

Congress leaders Ashok Gehlot and Sachin Pilot were seen sharing a warm exchange at Kota airport on Wednesday, marking their first public appearance together since their recent political sparring. Both leaders appeared cordial as they received Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi. The development comes days after the former CM targeted Pilot over his rebellion during the Congress rule. In response, Pilot sought to downplay his criticism, saying Gehlot had always shown him affection and that all Congress leaders and workers should stay united.

Row erupts over razing of structure linked to leader

A political storm is brewing in Surat after the municipal corporation's crackdown on an alleged illegal structure linked to a property owned by a BJP national leader took a bizarre twist. Civic body officials demolished a rooftop structure in Katargam and seized the material. But in a move that has raised eyebrows across political circles, the same municipal vehicle reportedly returned the confiscated goods to the site within hours. The incident has sparked intense debate, with Opposition voices asking if there is one rule for ordinary citizens and another for those with political clout.

BJP vs BJP in Narmada, high command steps in

The BJP's internal feud in Gujarat's Narmada has resurfaced. MLA Dr Darshanaben Deshmukh walked out of a Rajpipla event celebrating 12 years of PM Narendra Modi's government, alleging public humiliation, and began a symbolic fast. The protest gained momentum with support from MP Mansukh Vasava, former district BJP chief and other leaders. State BJP General Secretary Prashant Korat stepped in and persuaded the leaders to end the sit-in after assuring a hearing at the party headquarters, Kamalam. While the fast has ended, the factionalism concerns persist.

2 dead, 3 critical as C'garh sand mafia goes berserk

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

TWO persons have been killed and three others injured in a feud over illegal sand mining in the Koriya district of Chhatisgarh. About 350 kilometres north of the state capital Raipur, a 30-member mob allegedly used a heavy dumper to hit an SUV before setting it ablaze with petrol in the Katgodi village on Tuesday night.

One victim, who has been identified as Bharat Singh Gaharwar, alias Lalla Singh, was burned alive inside the SUV. Another victim succumbed to burn injuries during treatment at the Ambikapur Medical College. Three others, who sustained up to 60 per cent, are battling for their lives at a specialised facility in Raipur.

According to local and police sources, the feud emerged from a bitter rivalry over control of sand operations. Tensions started on Tuesday evening when a member of the victims' group allegedly assaulted a relative of the main accused.

Sources say that the victims' faction drove to the rivals' residence in three vehicles, but the accused had gathered a mob. The attackers reportedly repeatedly rammed into the victims' Toyota Fortuner. The impact jammed the SUV doors and trapped the occupants inside. The accused then poured petrol over the vehicle and set it on fire. The accused allegedly beat up witnesses when they attempted to shatter the windows of the vehicle to help the victims. Sources said that the driver of one of the three vehicles managed to take it to safety

The incident has sparked a massive political row. Opposition Congress said BJP members were involved in the rivalry. "Illegal sand mining used to be a shadow war. The fight to dominate the mining business saw a BJP leader allegedly burning alive another from his very own party," said Sushil Anand Shukla, chairman of the Congress Media Cell.

No doubt about Maharana Pratap's victory in Battle of Haldighati: RSS

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat on Wednesday reiterated the claim that Maharana Pratap, the Rajput ruler of the Kingdom of Mewar, had emerged victorious in the 1576 Battle of Haldighati.

Addressing a gathering at the Maharana Bhupal Stadium in Udaipur during an event marking the 450th anniversary of the battle between the forces of Maharana Pratap and the Mughal army led by Man Singh I on behalf of Emperor Akbar, Bhagwat said attempts had been made for centuries to distort Indian history. He maintained that there should be no doubt about Maharana Pratap's victory in the battle.

Referring to various phases of the conflict, Bhagwat said the Mughal forces were repeatedly pushed back and forced to retreat. He claimed that Mughal troops withdrew several miles, took shelter in Gogunda and struggled to survive, questioning how such circumstances could be interpreted as a Mughal victory.

The Mughals came to Mewar to eliminate Rana Pratap, but returned only with an elephant... Tactical retreats by leaders such as Maharana Pratap were portrayed as defeats

Mohan Bhagwat, RSS chief

Drawing a parallel with freedom fighter Babu Kunwar Singh, Bhagwat said history had similarly misrepresented his military campaigns against the British. According to him, tactical retreats employed by leaders such as Kunwar Singh and Maharana Pratap were later portrayed as defeats despite their strategic successes.

"The Mughals came to Mewar to eliminate Rana Pratap but returned only with an elephant," Bhagwat said, adding that the campaign failed to achieve its objective of subduing Mewar.

The Sangh chief also highlighted the role of social unity in Maharana Pratap's resistance. He stressed that people from different communities fought together under the Mewar ruler's leadership, setting aside caste differences in defence of their land and culture. According to Bhagwat, this unity became the foundation of Mewar's resilience against repeated Mughal offensives.

At the same time, Bhagwat acknowledged that divisions within Indian society had historically weakened collective resistance. He said Maharana Pratap was often left to fight alone while others remained spectators and urged society to learn from that experience.

Calling Maharana Pratap a symbol of self-rule and public welfare, Bhagwat emphasised that governments should draw inspiration from his model of governance.

HEARING TODAY

Banned Telegram moves HC amid govt pushback

UDAYAN KISHORE & RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

THE Centre on Wednesday told the Delhi High Court that there are "shocking activities" happening on Telegram after the messaging platform moved the court seeking a stay on the government order temporarily restricting access to the messaging app ahead of the NEET-UG 2026 re-examination.

Telegram argued that the government should order the blocking of specific channels or groups rather than banning the entire platform, which has around 150 million users in India.

"Just because some things are bad, you cannot block the entire platform," the counsel said, adding the company has been fully cooperative with the authorities. Appearing for the Centre, Solicitor General Tushar Mehta countered Telegram's argument, saying that simply blocking individual channels is ineffective.

"If the court posts the matter tomorrow, then there is something shocking I can show. One channel starts, it is prohibited, and then another is started. And with a QR code, you can make a payment. This is continuous," he said. Mehta told the court that the government had repeatedly warned Telegram about "shocking activities" happening on the platform.

"I have given examples and shared them. There are many channels. What is being projected and what is being circulated is that if you give me this much amount, I will give you 5 questions," Mehta told the court, referring to the NEET-UG leak. The court listed the matter for hearing on Thursday.

Meanwhile, Telegram founder and CEO Pavel Durov alleged in a post on X that Reliance and WhatsApp were behind the lobbying effort to ban Telegram in India.

WASHINGTON

SENIOR US officials dictated the memorandum of understanding with Iran to journalists on Wednesday after days of secrecy, and Iran suggested that its deal with the United States to end the war could be signed by Presidents Donald Trump and Masoud Pezeshkian.

Such a signing ceremony would represent a major step for the two countries, which saw diplomatic relations break off in 1980 over the US Embassy hostage crisis in Tehran. The US officials spoke on condition of anonymity to read the draft, which Iran has not released, ahead of a formal signing ceremony set for Friday. According to the officials, the draft agreement includes a new "minimum" standard for downblending of highly enriched Iranian uranium and provisions to ensure the "territorial integrity" of Lebanon after Israel's latest attacks against Hezbollah.

WAR WATCH

Meanwhile in Iran, Foreign Ministry spokesperson Esmail Baghaei was quoted by Iranian state television talking about the potential for the two presidents to sign the pact. Trump cast some uncertainty on whether the signing would happen as planned.

"You never know with deals, do you? But you're going to find out pretty soon," he said.

The interim deal opens a two-month period for nuclear negotiations and appears to offer Iran several benefits up front while extracting little in return. The interim deal stops the war before that is secured. The US agreement to immediately allow Iran to sell its oil freely and the offer to eventually lift all sanctions represent major concessions that go beyond the terms of Iran's 2015 nuclear deal with world powers.

The accord likely will draw intense opposition in Washington, and it appears to be a major setback for Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, who has come under criticism at home from the media, his opponents and even some allies as details emerge. The interim deal falls short of several goals Trump had set out for the conflict, but he hailed it on Wednesday.

"Nobody knows what it is, but it's very strong," Trump said during Group of Seven summit. "But if I don't like it, we'll go back to shooting at them, dropping bombs." AP

Lebanon says Israel talks separate from US-Iran deal

BEIRUT

LEBANESE President Joseph Aoun said on Wednesday that his country's negotiations with Israel in Washington were independent of the US-Iran deal to bring an end to the West Asia conflict. Lebanon and Israel have been holding direct talks in Washington since April, seeking to end the hostilities between Israel and Hezbollah and separate their conflict from the wider regional war.

But the announcement on Monday of the US-Iran deal, which Iran and mediator Pakistan say includes Lebanon, has reshuffled the cards. "The assurances we have received, and what we insist on, is that Lebanon's path in the negotiations is independent, though we are certainly for a ceasefire and for any country that helps us, including Iran," Aoun said, according to a statement from his office. But "interference in Lebanese affairs is not permitted", he added. The president expressed hope that next week's fifth round of talks "will be more positive, particularly considering the US administration's great interest in Lebanon".

"The Lebanese state is sovereign in its decision-making, and for the first time, it is the one conducting the negotiations, and nobody is negotiating for us," he said. "I reassure the Lebanese that nobody is tying us to any other country, and any settlement will be through us, not at our expense," he added.

Hezbollah on Monday thanked its backer Tehran for insisting Lebanon be included in the agreement with Washington, despite Beirut's efforts through the talks to achieve a ceasefire and a full withdrawal of Israeli forces. AFP

Funeral procession to pass through Iraq

TEHRAN: An Iranian official said on Wednesday that the funeral procession for late supreme leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, killed in US-Israeli strikes in February, will pass through Iraq before his burial in Mashhad on July 9. Tehran mayor Alireza Zakani said ceremonies would run from July 4-9, with processions in Iraq on July 8 and expectations of up to 20 million mourners in Tehran.

Pakistan to help repatriate 30 Iranians

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan is facilitating the repatriation of 30 Iranian nationals, including fishermen and crew members detained after a US interdiction, Deputy Prime Minister Ishaq Dar said on Wednesday. Eight fishermen rescued at sea and 22 crew members are expected to transit through Karachi. Islamabad said it was coordinating with Iran, the US and the UK to ensure their safe return.

China to provide aid to war-hit Iran, Lebanon

BEIJING: China will provide a new batch of humanitarian aid to Iran and Lebanon to support rehabilitation and reconstruction efforts, the Foreign Ministry said on Wednesday. Spokesperson Lin Jian said Beijing would continue assistance within its capacity and step up efforts to promote peace talks. China had provided emergency aid earlier this year and pledged to play an active role in securing peace in West Asia and advancing stability in the conflict-hit region.

G7 wraps up with AI push & focus on Ukraine, Iran talks

EVIAN-LES-BAINS

THE Group of Seven wrapped up three days of talks in the French Alps on Wednesday with discussions on the contentious future of artificial intelligence. Executives of leading AI companies including OpenAI CEO Sam Altman, Google DeepMind CEO Demis Hassabis and Anthropic CEO Dario Amodei attended discussions with US President Donald Trump and other leaders of industrial nations in the lakeside resort of Evian-les-Bains.

At a lunch on Wednesday the digital sphere took centre stage, with some European G7 members pushing for more security to protect minors in a fast-changing world. G7 leaders called on tech firms "to develop and apply technology and systems that ensure safe, secure and age-appropriate experiences," according to a joint statement.

French President Emmanuel Macron called for "better regulation" of artificial intelligence, warning of the risk of "non-cooperation between democracies."

The G7 leaders spent the bulk of the meetings discussing the war between Russia and Ukraine and a tentative deal to end the Iran war. Trump did not reveal details of the agreement expected to be signed ceremonially by the United States and Iran on Friday in Switzerland, saying "nobody knows what it is but it's very strong."

In contrast to last year's G7, when Trump walked out early, the leaders agreed on a final statement involving key geopolitical issues including Ukraine and Russia. "It was tough work but worth it," German Chancellor Friedrich Merz said, describing the statement as a "success".

As well as increasing supplies of air defence equipment to Ukraine more than four years into the war launched by Russia, the leaders agreed to "increase the pressure on the Russian war economy" by strengthening sanctions, including on Moscow's fossil fuel revenues, the statement said.

President Emmanuel Macron hailed a "very deep change in the US approach" towards Ukraine, saying Trump had understood that Russian President Vladimir Putin was not interested in peace. Canadian Prime Minister Mark Carney said he had noted a US "change in tone with respect to Ukraine".

French officials were thrilled that the mercurial US president stayed for the entire event and signed on to the G7 communique. In an unusual gesture, Macron invited Trump to dinner at the Palace of Versailles outside Paris after the summit wound down on Wednesday. Agencies

Putin hosts ASEAN leaders in Kazan to deepen ties

MOSCOW

RUSSIA's President Vladimir Putin is hosting leaders of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations at a meeting Wednesday that seeks to bolster business and other ties with members of the regional bloc.

The two-day meeting, being held in Kazan, is set to consider ways to expand Russia's "strategic partnership" with ASEAN nations that include Brunei, Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Malaysia, Myanmar, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, East Timor and Vietnam, according to Kremlin foreign affairs adviser Yuri Ushakov.

The regional bloc has maintained relations with Moscow as a "dialogue partner" and engaged Russian officials in annual top-level meetings, he said. The summit in Kazan, on the Volga River, marks the 35th anniversary of Russia-ASEAN relations. In a message greeting participants in a business forum held on the sidelines of the summit, Putin said he was confident that it will "create new opportunities for expanding mutually beneficial trade, investment, and industrial cooperation, while also strengthening direct dialogue between our business communities."

Ushakov said the agenda includes exchanging views on global and regional issues and reviewing efforts to develop Russia-ASEAN ties. He emphasized that the participants are set to underline their adherence to "forming a just and democratic multipolar world order based on the principles of international law and the United Nations Charter." Ushakov praised Russia-ASEAN ties and said Putin would hold bilateral meetings with ASEAN leaders at the summit co-chaired with Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos Junior. AP

PUBLIC OFFER

NSE files IPO papers with SEBI, full issue to be OFS

Offering is believed to be one of the largest in capital mkt history

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

THE National Stock Exchange (NSE) has filed its Draft Red Herring Prospectus (DRHP) with the capital market regulator, Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI), to raise funds through an initial public offering (IPO).

The IPO, with a face value of ₹1, is entirely an offer-for-sale of up to 148,905,525 shares by State Bank of India, MS Strategic (Mauritius) Ltd, Canada Pension Plan Investment Board, Aranda Investments (Mauritius) Pte Ltd, Bank of Baroda, Stock Holding Corporation of India Limited, General Insurance Corporation of India Limited, The New India Assurance Company Ltd, National Insurance Limited and United India Insurance Company Limited, as per the document filed with the SEBI.

The Offer is being made through the book-building process, wherein not more than 50% of the net offer is allocated to qualified institutional buyers, and not less than 15% and 35% of the net offer is assigned to non-institutional bidders and retail bidders, respectively.

As per reports, IPO size could be in the range of ₹25,000-30,000 crore, making it one of the largest issues in India's capital market history. NSE, which has around 1.8 lakh shareholders, is valued at over ₹5 lakh crore with its shares trading in the range of ₹1,950-2,050 in the unlisted market, according to market participants. Upon listing, NSE is expected to become one of the most valuable listed financial institutions in India.

THE OFFERING

1. Shareholders to sell up to 148,905,525 shares
2. Current shareholders planning to sell 6% of the company
3. IPO size could be in the range of ₹25k-30k crore
4. LIC is the single-largest shareholder in NSE, holding a 10.72% stake
5. SBI, its subsidiary, SBI Capital Markets, together own around 7.5% stake

Document shows that NSE revenue from operations was at ₹16,601 crore during FY26 as against ₹14,780 crore during FY24. Its net profit was ₹10,302 crore during FY26 as against ₹8,305 crore during FY24. A syndicate of its 20 domestic and global investment bankers, including Kotak Mahindra Capital Co. and Morgan Stanley India Co. are among the book-running lead managers for the share sale.

The filing would mark a major milestone for NSE, whose listing plans had remained on hold for nearly a decade due to regulatory issues, including the co-location controversy.

The NSE made its first attempt to list in 2016 but was advised to withdraw the plan as regulatory probes gathered pace over co-location and dark fibre cases.

While approval from Sebi's high-powered advisory committee on settlement was earlier seen as a prerequisite for granting a no-objection certificate, the regulator issued the NoC in January this year without waiting for a formal nod from this panel. This decision was taken amid prolonged delays and after key Sebi departments agreed to settle the cases under the consent mechanism.

Premium valuations for AI acquisitions

PADMINI DHRUVARAJ @ Bengaluru

INDIAN information technology services companies paid premium valuations for acquisitions focused on artificial intelligence and engineering capabilities in FY26, as firms increased spending on specialised talent, intellectual property and platforms.

Indian IT firms invested about $5.5 billion across 19 acquisitions during the year, as per an analysis by UnearthInsight. Most transactions were aimed at building capabilities rather than increasing scale through revenue or headcount additions. The shift comes as IT services companies increasingly turn to acquisitions to support growth amid pressure on traditional business models and changing client demand driven by AI adoption.

Hexaware's acquisition strategy has mirrored the shift towards capability-led deals. "We have always done acquisitions not by scale but for capability, and in the last three years, if you look into it, we did a few acquisitions," Hexaware CFO Vikash Jain told TNIE. "Acquisitions for us have always been not to gain scale but to gain access to capabilities which we can take across the breadth of our client sets," he added.

Focus on AI capabilities continues into FY27

The focus on AI capabilities has continued into FY27. Earlier this week, HCLTech agreed to acquire a 10.5% stake in generative AI startup Sarvam AI for about $150.7 million, valuing the company at $1.5 billion, as it stepped up investments in next-generation AI models.

The UnearthInsight study found that 12 capability-led transactions worth $4.7 billion commanded higher revenue multiples, while five scale-driven deals accounted for about $400 million. Smaller acquisitions such as HCLTech's purchase of Wobby and Persistent's acquisition of Aepona recorded some of the highest valuation multiples.

"Capability acquisitions replaced scale-driven M&A," the report said, adding that companies increasingly targeted specialised capabilities, platforms and talent instead of pursuing revenue expansion.

Major deals

Coforge led in terms of deal value with acquisitions worth $2.35 billion. The bulk of the value came from its acquisition of US-based engineering and AI services company Encora. Infosys and HCLTech completed the highest number of transactions during the year. North America accounted for 68% of acquisitions, underscoring the importance of market access and proximity to clients. Europe represented 21% of deals, while Asia-Pacific accounted for the remaining 11%, as per the UnearthInsight report.

Govt sells 5% in GIC via OFS, to garner ₹3k crore

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE government on Wednesday said it has sold a five per cent stake in the public sector reinsurance company, the General Insurance Corporation of India (GIC), with an enthusiastic response from investors to the offer for sale.

The stake sale is expected to garner about ₹3,000 crore to the exchequer, taking the total proceeds from five PSU disinvestments so far in the current fiscal to around ₹16,000 crore. Non-retail investors oversubscribed the offer for sale (OFS) on Tuesday, putting in bids worth ₹4,000 crore. The OFS opened for retail investors on Wednesday.

Through the two-day OFS at a floor price of ₹352 per share, the government proposed to divest 2 per cent of equity holding in GIC, with an additional 3 per cent as a green shoe option, taking the total stake dilution to 5%, equivalent to over 8.77 crore shares.

The floor price was at a 9.36% discount to Monday's closing price. GIC shares settled 7.65% lower at ₹358.65 on the BSE.

No foreign bidders on GeM yet, govt asks buyers to float relevant tenders

PUSHPITA DEY @ New Delhi

THE Government e-Marketplace (GeM) has not received a single bid from a foreign supplier, months after introducing the Global Tender Enquiry (GTE) functionality and a multi-currency payment system on the portal, according to officials familiar with the matter.

Officials said the key reason is that government departments and public sector undertakings (PSUs) have not floated relevant global tenders on the platform that would attract overseas participation. GeM has now started nudging buyers to issue such tenders through the portal.

"There has not been a single foreign bidder yet. For bidders to participate, buyers first need to issue GTEs for products or services where foreign suppliers are eligible. So far, no such GTE has been floated on GeM," an official aware of the development said.

GeM serves as the government's online procurement platform for common-use goods and services purchased by ministries, departments, organisations and PSUs.

We have to ensure that bidders gradually move to GeM. But the first step is getting buyers to issue GTEs for products where overseas participation is required

Government Official

The portal introduced the GTE functionality in February to facilitate the onboarding of foreign suppliers. In April, GeM also rolled out a multi-currency payment system, along with safeguards aimed at ensuring that domestic industry interests are not adversely affected.

Officials pointed to two major challenges in attracting foreign participation. First, India's procurement framework continues to provide preference to domestic suppliers. Second, the Central Public Procurement Portal (CPPP) remains an active avenue for foreign bidders. "We have to ensure that bidders gradually move to GeM. But the first step is getting buyers to issue GTEs for products where overseas participation is required," another official said.

Opening government procurement to foreign suppliers has gained significance following India's free trade agreements with the UAE and the UK. Under the India-UAE trade pact and the proposed agreement with the UK, companies from these countries can participate in India's public procurement process.

While GeM allows suppliers from all countries to bid, foreign firms—including those from the UK—will be classified as Class-II suppliers and will not enjoy the Class-I supplier status reserved for domestic companies. In addition, foreign participation will remain subject to prescribed value thresholds.

'BMW to place India among co's top 15 mkts'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

GERMAN luxury car manufacturer BMW wants to place India among 15 global markets for the company by 2030, said its India unit CEO Hardeep Singh Brar on Wednesday.

It added that in current calendar year, one-third of its annual volume would come from southern markets as BMW has 38% market share in this region. Speaking to TNIE, Brar said, "India is among top 20 markets globally, which was earlier in the top 25. By 2030, we aim to be among top 15 markets. We assume one-third of annual volume would come from south as we have 38% market share in south India as against 35% nationally."

The BMW India on Wednesday launched its SUV MINI Countryman C model in India, priced at ₹47.50 lakh. The company is planning to double its dealership as it plans to expand its reach in Tier-2 cities like Lucknow, Jaipur, Ranchi, Jodhpur, among others. By the end of 2026, BMW India will be opening 21 outlets in 19 cities. Brar said, "We are launching SUV because earlier we didn't have ICE model under MINI Countryman, and we are seeing growing traction for SUVs in India."

Tata Motors PV shares fall 10% on JLR updates

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

TATA Motors Passenger Vehicles (TMPV) shares crashed 10% intraday on Wednesday to hit the day's low of ₹355 on the BSE as investors reacted to the financial year 2027 (FY27) road map shared by its British subsidiary Jaguar Land Rover (JLR). The luxury automaker, in its investor day update, stated that it is targeting a medium-term double-digit growth with an increased focus on North America.

Amid heavy volume, the stock recovered from the day's low and ended 8.10% lower at ₹361.70 on the BSE. The decline came despite optimism in the broader equity market as benchmarks-BSE Sensex and NSE Nifty50 - advanced for the fourth straight session on Wednesday amid falling crude oil prices triggered by easing geopolitical tension.

The BSE Sensex closed 0.45% higher at 77,156 levels while the Nifty50 settled 0.40% higher at 24,086.

JLR has projected revenue growth of 13% to £26 billion for FY27 and guided for EBIT margins of 4%, compared with just over 0% in the previous financial year. While this is a big improvement, analysts at large were expecting margins above the 4% mark.

"JLR EBIT margin guidance of 4% in FY27E was lower than the street's expectation of 5% - 6% which led to the sharp sell-off in the stock," said Sunny Agrawal, Head - Fundamental Research at SBI SECURITIES.

He added that profitability at JLR has been impacted due to supply chain challenges, plant shutdown due to cyber attacks as well as adverse currency movement. "Extent of recovery will depend on the demand recovery in key markets of North America and Europe and the success of EV transition of the product portfolio," said Agrawal.

Don't buy, sell unlisted stocks through unrecognised platforms, warns SEBI

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

CAPITAL market regulator Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) on Wednesday cautioned investors against buying and selling securities of unlisted public companies through electronic platforms and websites that facilitate such transactions, saying these platforms are neither recognised nor authorised by the market regulator.

In a statement on Wednesday, the regulator said it has come to its notice that certain online platforms are enabling transactions and trading in unlisted securities of public limited companies.

Sebi warned investors against conducting transactions or sharing sensitive personal information on such platforms, reiterating that only recognised stock exchanges are authorised to provide a platform for fundraising and trading in securities.

The warning comes amid growing investor interest in shares of unlisted companies, particularly startups and pre-IPO firms, which are increasingly being traded through private online marketplaces outside the regulated exchange ecosystem.

The advisory follows earlier warnings issued by the regulator in December 2024 and August 2016, as well as recent cautions against unauthorised virtual trading, paper trading and fantasy gaming platforms, and unregistered online platforms offering unlisted debt securities.

Sebi said investors using such platforms would not be entitled to the protections available under its regulatory framework. These include investor protection measures under the jurisdiction of Sebi and stock exchanges, as well as access to exchange-administered grievance redressal mechanisms and the online dispute resolution platform operated by exchanges and depositories.

Lionel Messi walks to take a corner kick as Argentina fans try to get a close glimpse of him during Argentina's tie vs Algeria in Kansas City | AFP

MAJESTIC. MAGIC. MESSI

As the 38-year-old reminded the world once again why he is football royalty, Swaroop Swaminathan tries to make sense of his longevity & why it is a privilege to watch him live...

ON some days, you just have to be thankful. Thankful to Lionel Messi. Thankful for the privilege of watching him for over two decades. Morning, noon or night, you are never far away from a new Messi moment. Even if you have seen moments like those at least 10 other times, there's always something new. A Messi moment is like that favourite bar of ice-cream. So good you can't just have one. Or two. Or 10. You keep going back because... well, woof. It's that good.

In Kansas on Tuesday evening, he provided three more moments of magic to illuminate the global stage yet again.

Many superlatives have been used to describe him in the hours after the hat-trick — his first-ever at the World Cup — won't be a superlative. Longevity. For 20 years and six World Cups, his sui generis capacity to excel on the brightest stage has never been in doubt. In 2006, he became his country's youngest goal-scorer. In 2026, he is now his country's oldest goal-scorer.

****

In the hours before the Argentine superstar took to the field,

TOP SCORERS AT WC

Players	Goals	Apps
M Klose (Germany)	16	24
L Messi (Argentina)	16	27
Ronaldo (Brazil)	15	19
G Muller (Germany)	14	13
K Mbappe (France)	14	15

Kylian Mbappe and Erling Haaland, two footballers who will challenge all of Messi's goal-scoring exploits in the next decade, had scored braces. A gauntlet was quietly laid down. It may well be the age of Mbappe and Haaland in European club football, but the hierarchy in the international game isn't as linear.

ARGENTINA VS ALGERIA

It's what Messi showed with a very Messi kind of hat-trick. For the opening act, he picked up the ball near the centre circle and drove through Algeria's spine. Their defenders were backtracking while the midfielders were already out of the game. Sure, he has lost some pace, but he still retains that ability to make the ball stick to his feet, dribble and make a yard of space for himself. Here, he had picked up the ball and had a lot of real estate to run into before unleashing that famous left foot of his across the goalkeeper from just beyond the D. Luca Zidane (Zinedine's son) tried his best but couldn't prevent the obvious.

1-0; lift-off.

His second was simpler but still liquid Messi. Alexis Mac Allister's long-range drive was spilled by Zidane back into the danger zone. But Messi anticipated it far quicker than the Algeria defenders. He got to the ball, sat the goal-keeper down before passing the ball into the opposite corner with his right foot.

2-0.

His piece de resistance, bread and butter, completed the hat-trick.

After picking up the ball and moving swiftly through Algerian territory, he used Nicolas Gonzalez who was by himself on the left flank. Even in real time, it was obvious what the next few seconds would bring. Messi paused to compute everything happening around him. That pause also meant an Algerian body was no longer part of his shadow. In that split second, Gonzalez played it back to Messi, who was by now near the edge of the D. There were four players in Algerian green next to him; path to goal so congested a single blanket could have covered all of them. But he's of course so good he only ever needs a yard. End result? A low curler nestling in the left bottom corner. It was also a milestone moment. A 16th World Cup goal meant he's level with Miroslav Klose in the all-time charts.

****

Over the last few years, the 38-year-old has existed not in front and centre of football's consciousness. Six months after winning the World Cup in Qatar, he moved to the US. A new home. A new league. And away from the flashbulbs of the Champions League and European leagues, competitions that honed and made him for almost two decades. At Inter Miami in US' south coast, away from the media glare, he has continued to do his thing.

Creating assists from nothing, topping goal-scoring charts, winning Cups and individual honours and playing his part in being a football evangelist. Since moving there, he also helped Argentina retain the Copa America in 2024.

Result: Argentina 3 (Messi 17', 60', 76') bt Algeria 0.

Quiet outing for Ron

AGENCIES @ Houston

THE spotlight was on Ronaldo and Portugal as they began their World Cup campaign at Houston Stadium on Wednesday. Up against DR Congo, they made a dream start with Joao Neves finding the back of the net as early as the sixth minute. But Portugal barely had a sniff at goal the rest of the opening half with Congo putting up a disciplined display.

PORTUGAL VS DR CONGO

Ronaldo, who became just the second man to feature in six World Cups, could only watch as it was Congo who scored next through Yoane Wissa at the stroke of half-time.

It was a historic moment for Congo fans as it was their first at the showpiece event after 52 years. Wissa rose highest to score past Diogo Costa from close range. When they last scored a goal at the World Cup, they were known by a different name (Zaire).

Ronaldo had a couple of half-chances after the hour mark but he could not find the target. With fresher legs, both teams had chances as it slightly became end to end. In the end, however, both of them suffered from a lack of cutting edge.

SWISS FACE BOSNIA TEST

After a disappointing draw in their opening match, Switzerland will know they have to start taking their chances against Bosnia. A look...

EMBOLO UP FRONT

The Cameroon born striker scored their only goal from the penalty spot but their forwards fluffed their lines a lot. The onus will fall on Breel Embolo to convert a few of those chances.

BOSNIA'S GRIT

They had to weather quite the storm against the Canadians after taking the lead. While they would be disappointed at losing the lead, they showed that they would be always up for a fight. This match could also become one.

QUICK PASSES

Neymar back in training for Brazil

MORRISTOWN: Neymar was back on the training field, returning to action for the first time since he joined Brazil's squad while nursing an injured right leg. Neymar still wasn't at full speed, though, and did mostly physical conditioning at a training camp outside New York. He had undergone tests on his right calf to determine the progress of injury that he sustained on May 17.

New coach ready

MONTERREY (MEXICO): New Tunisia head coach Herve Renard held his first practice with the squad on Tuesday, shortly after replacing Sabri Lamouchi, who was fired after the team's 5-1 thumping to Sweden. The 57-year-old Frenchman had four days to get the team prepared for its second Group F game against Japan on Saturday. "At the moment we need to be focussed on ourselves," Renard told reporters.

Austria beat Jordan

SANTA CLARA: Austria were given a scare by debutants Jordan on Tuesday before securing a 3-1 win rounded off by a penalty in added time from Marko Arnautovic. The Austrians went ahead at Levi's Stadium near San Francisco when Romano Schmid produced a brilliant opening goal. Jordan equalised but an own goal from Yazan al-Arab helped Austria take lead before Arnautovic's late strike.

KO berth on the line

WITH THE SECOND ROUND BEGINNING ON THURSDAY, ONE OF MEXICO OR SOUTH KOREA CAN ASSURE A PLACE IN THE KNOCKOUT STAGE. A LOOK...

FOCUS ON QUINONES

Mexico's opener seems like a long time ago but one of the clear winners from that opening day was Julian Quinones, all twinkle foot and a livewire on the field. The attacker, who beat Cristiano Ronaldo to the golden boot in Saudi Arabia, will be chomping at the bit to go again.

SOUTH KOREA'S VERVE

In the game against Czechia, the Asian side caught the eye with the way they interchanged and attacked. It helped that their opponents didn't offer much but that would miss the point. This, though, is a far greater test against the hosts.

Two good: Mbappe inspires France

AGENCIES @ East Rutherford

FOR 45 minutes, Kylian Mbappe and France had looked dull and lacking ideas. That's when Mbappe, in a new avatar as captain of France, sparkled into life to turn a potentially tricky afternoon France's way. By the time his work was done, the two-time champions and one of the favourites to win the 2026 edition had run out 3-1 winners against Senegal.

FRANCE VS SENEGAL

The African nation could have well taken the lead in the first-half as they had chances but once Mbappe switched on, he inspired his country to raise their level. Les Blues can be accused of playing a very specific brand of football aimed to eliminate all jeopardy — known as sufferball — before letting their side's individual brilliance shine through. It does have its own risks because playing on the margins is never easy. On Tuesday afternoon, though, it just about worked out for them thanks to Mbappe's brace as well as Michael Olise, who ran the game for them in the attacking third. This pair combined for the opening after the Bayern Munich's pass from the inside right channel.

Haaland in wonderland

AGENCIES @ Foxborough

NORWAY will go as far in this World Cup as Erling Haaland take it. In his tournament debut, he showed he's more than up for that challenge.

NORWAY VS IRAQ

Haaland scored two goals on Tuesday to propel Norway to a 4-1 victory over Iraq in Group I. The Manchester City striker's 56th and 57th international goals came in Norway's first appearance in the tournament since reaching the knockout round at the 1998 World Cup in France — two years before Haaland was born. Haaland said he will do his best to meet the expectations he created with this performance. "Of course I will try," Haaland said. "It's about continuing and don't think too much. It's difficult at this stage."

Injury scare for Patil as India win big

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

EVEN as India cruised past Netherlands to register their second win of the Women's T20 World Cup and moved to the top spot in Group A, they suffered a massive injury blow at Leeds on Wednesday. Shreyanka Patil, the off-spinning all-rounder, had to be stretchered off the field after she twisted her ankle while fielding.

Patil, coming on to bowl in the sixth over after India set a target of 210 for the Dutch, tried to stop the ball near mid-on off her own bowling. While trying to collect the ball, she twisted her ankle and was visibly in pain. Not being able to complete the over, Patil could not walk and had to be stretchered off the field in a vehicle. Shafali Verma finished the over as Patil did not take part in the remainder of the match. The injury brought flashbacks of Pratika Rawal's devastating ankle injury during the ODI World Cup last year which ruled the opener out of the tournament. While there is no official update as of yet, India would be hoping that Patil's injury is not too serious and she would recover in time for the upcoming matches. India will play South Africa next on Sunday.

Concluding our wellness travel series, we head toward the South this week. Discover how communities across the region turn local landscapes and ancient practices into traditions of healing...

THE ART OF HEALING

BEYOND the familiar world of heated stones and standardised resort therapies, South India's approach to wellness unfolds in a far more intimate way. Here, healing is closely connected to geography, seasons, local ingredients and practices passed down through generations. For travellers seeking an authentic experience of regional wellbeing, these traditional rituals offer a glimpse into how communities have long balanced the body and mind through nature-led therapies.

Karnataka

In the state's coastal regions and mist-covered highlands, wellness remains closely tied to household traditions and seasonal rhythms. Around Mangaluru and Udupi, Saturdays are traditionally associated with Enne Snana or the oil bath. The ritual involves a careful application of warm castor oil or pure coconut oil infused with brahmi, massaged into the scalp and body. It is washed off using natural ingredients such as seekakai and green gram paste instead of conventional soap. The practice is traditionally believed to help maintain balance and prevent excess body heat. In Coorg, wellness takes a more forest-based form. After the monsoon rains, local communities gather madd thopp, the leaves of Justicia Wynaadensis. On a particular day in August, these leaves are believed to develop 18 distinct medicinal properties. Boiled into a deep purple extract, they are used in sweet puddings to protect against joint pain and respiratory ailments.

Tamil Nadu

Here the wellness heritage is deeply influenced by Siddha medicine, an ancient system traditionally associated with sage Agastya. Unlike many approaches focused only on remedies, Siddha places emphasis on varmam or vital energy points, along with the use of raw herbs and natural ingredients. In the Tenkasi district lies Kutralam, often called the 'Spa of South India.' Surrounded by dense forests rich in medicinal plants and wild herbs, the region is famous for its cascading waterfalls. For generations, locals and visitors have stood beneath these powerful falls, where the force of the water creates a natural hydro-massage experience. The flowing water, enriched by botanical elements from the surrounding forests, is traditionally believed to help relieve physical fatigue and soothe certain skin conditions. The experience is often followed by a traditional head massage using cooling, house-pressed neem or sesame oil.

Andhra Pradesh & Telangana

Across the Deccan region, traditional wellness is closely linked to folk medicine, known locally as Natu Vaidyam and highly specific dietary practices. Places such as Uravakonda in Anantapur and certain areas of Guntur are known for practitioners who use herbal poultices made from ingredients such as egg white, turmeric and wild jungle weeds. These treatments are traditionally used to support joint alignment, ease deep-tissue inflammation and improve posture. Given the region's naturally spicy cuisine, especially the famous Guntur chillies, local wellness traditions also focus on restoring internal balance. Cooling practices include consuming gongura (sorrel leaves) and drinking generous amounts of fresh buttermilk blended with crushed curry leaves and asafoetida. These traditional dietary practices are believed to soothe the digestive system and help flush out accumulated heat from the body.

HEALING PRACTICES AT A GLANCE

- AYURVEDA — Oil therapies, herbal detox & rejuvenation
- SIDDHA — Herbal medicine, varmam therapy, detox & longevity
- YOGA & MEDITATION — Breath, posture & mindfulness
- DIET & RITUALS — Seasonal foods, herbal drinks & daily routines
- NATURAL THERAPIES — Hydro-massage, steam, poultices & plant baths

Kerala

God's own country may be globally recognised for Ayurveda, but the most culturally significant time to experience its wellness traditions is not necessarily the peak tourist season. The monsoon month of Karkidakam, usually between July and August, holds special importance in the state's healing calendar. During this period, locals follow Karkidaka Chikitsa, a seasonal rejuvenation practice, making it an ideal time for therapies such as abhyanga — a synchronised full-body oil massage using medicated sesame oil — along with steam treatments. A central part of this seasonal wellness routine is Karkidaka Kanjhi, a nourishing medicinal rice gruel prepared with broken red rice, coconut milk and a blend of 15 to 30 indigenous herbs, including garden cress, fenugreek and cumin.

Couples prefer beaches of suburban Chennai for their privacy, connectivity and ocean views

Nandi Hills is emerging as a popular destination due to luxury wedding venues at the foothills

PICS: JOURNEYS BY VIVEK, MERAGI EVENTS

A wedding in Jaipur

JET, SET, SWAY

With the ongoing West Asia conflict and PM Modi's appeal to avoid international destination weddings, established domestic spots have seen an uptick in interest, while the foothills of the Nandi Hills and even suburban Chennai beaches have emerged as off-beat choices among Bengalureans

MAHIMA NAGARAJU

Amala exchange on the scenic beaches of Bali or Thailand, a sangeet at the poolside of a sleek hotel in Dubai or saying 'I do' amid the green vineyards of Italy – these images go hand in hand with the idea of destination weddings. But as the last few months have made international travel unpredictable and expensive, along with PM Narendra Modi appealing to Indians to hold off on international weddings, these images may slowly be changing in the minds of Bengalureans.

"Over the past few years, destination weddings have become increasingly popular, and today approximately 30 per cent of our weddings involve guests travelling to a destination outside the couple's home city. The biggest impact has been that couples and families are spending more time ensuring they have alternative plans, travel insurance, flight connectivity and are prioritising overall guest convenience," says Roxabell Gomez, co-founder of Elegant Weddings, a city-based wedding planning company. She adds, "Overall, the focus has shifted toward picking venues within India."

This shift towards India is not being seen as a huge concession, either, with classic destinations like Goa, Rajasthan and Kerala already established as beautiful options within the country. They've also felt the benefits of this shift the most, as Arpan Suresh Parihar, business head (destination) of Meragi Events, a wedding planning company in the city, notes, "Previously, we'd have around 100 enquiries for Goa, but in the last few months, that's increased to 125 or 130. We've seen approximately a 30 per cent increase in interest in domestic destinations."

However, it's not just the classic spots getting attention as travel influencer Madhu Sharma notes that couples, inspired by social media, are looking towards intimate and offbeat destinations you wouldn't normally associate with weddings "These destinations are not so crowded, you get better pricing and the venues' availability is more flexible. They are cosy, private and perfect for small groups," she says, pointing to destinations like Kodagu, Chikkamagaluru, Kumarakom, Wayanad and Rishikesh – places usually associated with a long weekend trip or vacation.

Parihar concurs, adding that the glamorous and royal Rajasthan wedding seekers have shifted their sights to smaller cities and towns close to the established Jaipur, Udaipur and Jodhpur. "People outside Rajasthan are increasingly wanting to get married in smaller places in Rajasthan like Pushkar, Kumbhalgarh and Ranthambore, especially after Katrina Kaif (Fort Barwara in Sawai Madhopur) and Kiara Advani (Suryagarh Palace in Jaisalmer) chose to do so. You get bigger palaces in these places at the same price point as a smaller palace in bigger cities with less crowds and traffic," he shares, although also pointing out that smaller towns mean less established infrastructure of wedding vendors and stating that the same applies to Chikkamagaluru – though beautiful, it may come with limited local vendor options.

Pushkar's Pratap Mahal

Nahargarh Fort in Ranthambore

Closer to home, Siddharth Hegde, founder of Dreamstrokes Weddings, notes that in the past two years, Nandi Hills has grown beyond a picnic destination. "Usually, with South Indian inter-state marriages or in case one person in the couple has roots in Bengaluru, Nandi Hills is a top destination because luxury venues like AmitaRasa and JW Marriott Bengaluru Prestige Golfshire Resort and Spa have come up there. Among the luxury-high-end segment, couples end up booking the former venue for the wedding and Marriott properties like Mulberry Shades for rooms. The appeal is mainly the aesthetic of the foothills' view and South Indian architecture overlooking it."

Another unexpected spot popular among Bengalureans is Chennai, once a place frequented to visit family or to get visas stamped. "Chennai has long been seen as a metro city, not a destination spot, but we have around 15-18 projects there on the outskirts. People prefer these beach properties for their greenery, the ocean view, as well as good connectivity to Chennai and closeness to Bengaluru," shares Parihar.

Overall, planners are optimistic about what this year will bring, with Hegde noting, "When weddings were moving out of India, a great chunk of the vendors dependent on them would lose out on business, but I believe this increases the potential for everyone involved." Gomez adds, "We see this as a positive opportunity. If more couples choose to celebrate within the country, it can really support local businesses, artisans, venues and tourism ecosystems."

Previously, we'd have around 100 enquiries for Goa, but in the last few months, that's increased to 125 or 130. We've seen approximately a 30 per cent increase in interest in domestic destinations

SANDHYA SURENDRAN, entertainment lawyer

As an entertainment lawyer, I don't believe in exercising creative control over an artiste's work, but I do believe artists must be accountable for the social impact of their art. Art reflects society, but it also shapes public perception. When a work reinforces negative stereotypes about an already marginalised community, accountability becomes important because such representations can deepen existing biases. The debate around separating art from the artiste is ultimately subjective and often depends on the nature of the offence. In situations like these, there is no one-size-fits-all response, but artistes should be willing to listen to criticism and acknowledge the influence they hold. Ultimately, how audiences engage with an artiste's work depends on the nature of the issue and the values they choose to prioritise. At the same time, today, almost everyone gets 'cancelled' online, turning it into a temporary public relations crisis rather than a meaningful form of accountability, as collective attention quickly moves on to the next controversy.

PRIYANK ASHA SUKANAD, state head of LGBTQIA+ congress

The conversation has unfortunately shifted. What began as queer and trans people expressing genuine hurt has now become another debate about 'cancel culture'. The focus should remain on understanding why people were offended and addressing the harm caused, rather than reducing it to a question of whether someone is being unfairly targeted. As someone involved in both queer advocacy and public life, I believe accountability is an act of care. A meaningful response from him would begin with acknowledging that the language used was harmful. Not an 'I'm sorry if you were offended,' but an understanding of why the criticism exists. Condemning harmful language is necessary. But the goal should not simply be punishment – it should be growth, understanding, and ensuring that our cultural spaces become safer and more respectful for everyone.

The recent debate around Diljit Dosanjh's Aroma song lyrics in Pride Month raises questions of representation, accountability and impact especially with pop culture celebrities having power to influence people

Drawing the 'LINE'

ANJALI RAM & CHANDANA NAGARAJU

AS Pride Month began this June, conversations around LGBTQIA+ representation and inclusion took centre stage online. Among them was a debate surrounding Punjabi singer-actor Diljit Dosanjh's song Aroma, which drew criticism from members of the queer community over the alleged use of a derogatory term for transgender people. The controversy quickly expanded, sparking discussions on the impact of language in popular culture, the responsibility of artistes with large platforms, and whether social media outrage helps or hinders meaningful conversations about discrimination. While opinions remain divided, the incident has once again brought questions of representation, accountability, and the lived realities of queer and trans communities into public focus.

ZUBIN BASIL, student

Outside of certain social media circles and news outlets, most people are unaware of the issue. Diljit's music is largely consumed as party music, and many listeners are not paying close attention to the lyrics, especially since a large section of his audience does not speak Punjabi. That said, the debate does highlight a larger issue around LGBTQIA+ representation in Indian media. Greater representation could help challenge the idea that queerness is a foreign or Western concept rather than something that has always existed in Indian society.

EZRA M, student

The focus on Diljit Dosanjh risks overshadowing a much larger issue. What matters more are the anti-trans laws being passed across the world and the lives lost to discrimination and marginalisation. His song may have added fuel to that fire, but the problem itself runs much deeper than one artiste. That is why I don't think even a response or apology is the most important thing here. As a wealthy global performer in his 40s, he should already understand the impact of language and representation. What is needed is a change in the kind of art and messaging being normalised. I also don't believe in separating art from the artiste. Artistes actively promote their work and the values embedded within it. When harmful ideas are reflected in that work, audiences have every right to question, criticise and hold them accountable rather than placing public figures on a pedestal.

SAYANTAN DATTA, gender & sexuality studies researcher

While there has been progress in recent years with more queer-affirmative stories, incidents like this reveal how deeply entrenched certain ideas about gender and masculinity remain. The issue is not just the use of a slur, but the broader notion of masculinity that the lyrics appear to celebrate, where courage and worth are tied to a narrow, heteronormative idea of being a man. Representation in popular culture matters because it shapes how society understands and engages with marginalised communities. That is why artistes should be accountable for the messages their work sends. While I would like to hear a response from Dosanjh, I am more interested in an explanation and acknowledgement of the concerns raised than in simply labelling him as a transphobic individual. Public criticism of influential art is both necessary and legitimate.

The launch expands the range of treatment options available for prostate cancer patients in India and reflects ongoing efforts to introduce innovative oncology therapies in the country.

Is there a training to do pull-ups effortlessly?

Pull-ups are a skill as much as they are a strength exercise and they can be trained progressively.

- Start with exercises that build the necessary strength, such as assisted pull-ups, lat pulldowns, inverted rows and dead hangs.
- Negative pull-ups, where you slowly lower yourself from the top position, are effective for developing pulling strength.

ASK AN XPERT

- Focus on strengthening your back, shoulders, grip and core while practicing pull-up variations consistently (two to three times per week).
- As your strength to body weight ratio improves, pull-ups will become easier and more controlled.

The secret is not finding a magic exercise, it's following a structured progression and being patient with the process. With consistent training, most people can achieve their first pull-up and eventually perform them with ease.

FIVE SIMPLE MOVEMENTS FOR STRONGER KNEES

Strong knees are not built by working only on the knee joint. The knee depends on the thighs, hips, calves and ankles for support. When these areas are stronger, daily actions like walking, climbing stairs, sitting down and standing up can feel more stable.

These five bodyweight movements are simple and can be done at home. Move slowly and stay within a comfortable range.

1. STRAIGHT LEG RAISE
Lie on your back. Bend one knee and keep the other leg straight. Tighten the thigh of the straight leg and lift it slowly to the height of the bent knee. Lower with control. Do eight to 10 repetitions on each side.

2. SIDE-LYING LEG RAISE
Lie on one side with the bottom knee bent for support. Keep the top leg straight and lift it slowly. Do not roll the body backward. Do eight to 12 repetitions on each side. This strengthens the side hip muscles, which help control knee alignment.

3. HEEL RAISES
Stand near a wall or chair. Rise slowly onto the toes, then lower the heels with control. Do 10 to 15 repetitions. This strengthens the calves and supports ankle control.

4. SIT-TO-STAND
Sit on a chair with feet hip-width apart. Keep the knees pointing in the same direction as the toes. Lean slightly forward and stand up. Sit back down slowly. Use the hands for support if needed. Do eight to 12 repetitions.

5. LOW STEP-UP
Stand facing a low step or staircase. Hold a railing or wall. Place the full foot on the step. Step up with control, then step down slowly. Keep the knee pointing forward, not collapsing inward. Do six to eight repetitions on each side.

Do these movements three to four times a week. Stop if there is sharp pain, swelling, locking, giving way or pain that increases. In such cases, consult a doctor or physiotherapist.

WOLVES IN MIGRAINE'S CLOTHING

COMMONLY MISTAKEN FOR MIGRAINES, HEADACHES CAN BE A SIGN OF SOMETHING WORSE

Dr PRAVIN THOMAS

A YOUNG woman comes to my clinic with the complaint of having had 'migraine' for four years. She has seen three doctors and finished a small pharmacy of painkillers, yet nobody ever questioned the label.

By the time she sits across from me, she has stopped reading because reading makes the pain swell at the back of her skull, and twice last month she fainted while waiting for an auto. I ask her one thing none of the painkillers asked: What does your head do when you stand up? It gets worse, she says. Far worse. Lying flat is the only thing that helps. I see a version of her every few weeks, and that single answer is often the line between a headache and an emergency.

We picture headache as one thing that varies only in how much it hurts. In fact, the head is a pressure system, and pressure can fail in either direction. When the fluid around the brain runs too high, or leaks away and runs too low, the brain protests in the only language it has: pain.

The cruelty is that this pain copies migraine almost perfectly. The one clue it cannot hide is posture. Migraine rarely cares whether you sit, stand or lie down. These conditions care enormously.

Cluster headache, the savage pain that has been called the suicide headache, is also mistaken for migraine or sinus trouble for years, yet the mimics that truly kill are far quieter.

Take Idiopathic Intracranial Hypertension, where the pressure climbs for reasons still poorly understood. It tends to strike young women, more so as obesity becomes common, and it shows up as a headache that is worse on waking or on lying down, often with a whooshing pulse in one ear and brief greyouts when the person stands. Those greyouts are a warning.

The raised pressure pushes on the optic nerves, and if nobody looks, it can slowly take the sight it was warning about. A doctor can see that danger in under a minute by looking into the back of the eye. Most patients are never offered the look.

Now reverse the pressure. In Spontaneous Intracranial Hypotension, spinal fluid leaks out through a tiny tear or fistula, the brain loses its cushion and sags inside the skull. The signature is exactly what my patient described: fine when flat, unbearable when upright. Left unnamed, it can tear veins and clot the surface of the brain.

In some people, the sagging frontal lobes produce changes in behaviour and memory that look identical to dementia. A family is told that someone in their forties has an untreatable degenerative disease.

Now and then, the real answer is a leak that can be sealed with a patch of the patient's own blood, after which the dementia or coma lifts. A treatable illness in the disguise of an incurable one.

Then there is the racing heart. In Postural Orthostatic Tachycardia Syndrome (POTS), the autonomic nervous system misfires on standing, the pulse shoots up, and the person feels faint, drained and headachy, with a mental fog they struggle to put into words.

It overlaps with migraine and with the loose-jointed connective tissue that also makes spinal leaks more likely, so one patient may carry several of these labels at once. Almost all of them, at some stage, are told it is anxiety.

That word is where the harm gathers. These illnesses fall mostly on young women, they are invisible on a hurried examination and they steal something we almost never measure: cognition. The brain fog of POTS, the fading memory of a sagging brain, the blunted concentration of high pressure. People lose jobs and degrees and get written off as fragile, while a fixable problem goes unnamed for years.

This is where India should worry. Community studies find that roughly two in three adults had a headache in the past year, and around one in four adults lives with migraine, women most of all, yet fewer than a quarter had sought any medical care for it.

We have a tiny number of dedicated headache specialists for 1.4 billion people, and almost none of the patient advocacy that Britain and the US built decades ago. There, charities fund research, teach doctors to catch the dangerous mimics, and give patients somewhere to turn. Here, a person is mostly left to ration paracetamol and hope.

Headache Awareness Month is a good time to say the unglamorous thing. Most headaches are harmless. A few are not, and they hide in plain sight. The fix is not exotic. It is asking what the pain does when the body changes position, looking into the back of the eye, and building the advocacy that turns a private misery into something to be taken seriously.

CP YOGEESHWARA TO MAKE A COMEBACK WITH SAINIKA 2?

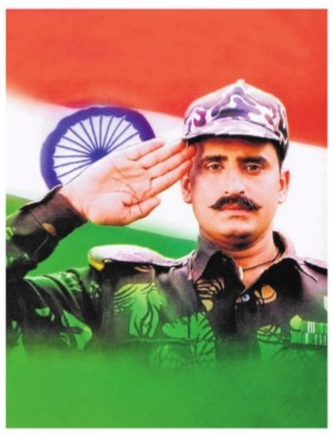
As son Dhyan Yogeeshwara gears up for his acting debut, actor-politician CP Yogeeshwara is reportedly set for a comeback with Sainika 2. Both projects are expected to be announced in July

CP Yogeeshwara

A SHARADHAA

THE Kannada film industry is abuzz with speculation surrounding actor-politician CP Yogeeshwara's next move. While the immediate spotlight is on the launch of his son, Dhyan Yogeeshwara, as a leading man, there are indications that Yogeeshwara himself may be preparing for a return to the big screen after years away from acting. According to industry sources, the actor-turned-politician, also referred to as Yogeshwar, is considering a comeback with Sainika 2, a sequel to one of his career's most defining films. An official announcement is expected in July, coinciding with the launch of two projects — Dhyan's debut film and Yogeeshwara's own return vehicle.

Dhyan's maiden venture is expected to be directed by Naganna, with an experienced technical team reportedly coming together for the project, including writer MS Ramesh, cinematographer Shekar Chandru and music director V Harikrishna. Long before establishing himself as a prominent political figure, Yogeeshwara built his identity as an actor through films such as Uttara Dhruvadim Dakshina Dhruvaku, Jothegara, Yaksha, Ravana, Bangarada Jinke and Ambi. Among them, Sainika continues to occupy a special place. Released in 2002, the patriotic action drama featured Yogeeshwara as an army officer driven by duty, courage and sacrifice.



If the sequel materialises, it would mark more than just a comeback. It would see Yogeeshwara revisit a film that played a key role in shaping his popularity as a leading man. It will also be interesting to see how the active politician balances public life with the demands of cinema, and whether Sainika 2 can recreate the emotional connect enjoyed by its predecessor more than two decades ago. For now, the project remains under wraps, with details regarding the director, production banner and supporting cast yet to be revealed.

Hybrid folk sounds keep Gramayana fresh: Poornachandra Tejaswi

CE FEATURES

The Lucia composer reflects on crafting a distinct musical identity for Gramayana, and the pressures of chasing hits

POORNACHANDRA Tejaswi's journey is often associated with Lucia, the film that introduced audiences to his distinctive musical sensibilities. More than a decade and over 20 films later, the composer continues to seek new ways of telling stories through music. Gramayana, the upcoming Vinay Rajkumar-starrer directed by Devanuru Chandru and produced by Naveen Manohar under the Lahari Films banner, offered him precisely such an opportunity.

Talking about Gramayana, Poornachandra began, that was never going to be another village drama wrapped in predictable folk tunes. "The story is set around 2006-07 and unfolds in a village, but it also carries a strong political message," says Poornachandra. "When Chandru and I discussed the music, I didn't want the usual folklore template. Instead, I experimented with a hybrid folk sound that felt rooted yet contemporary. That freshness formed the film's identity. Overall, it feels new while still belonging to the world of Gramayana."

Set for release on July 3, Gramayana stars Megha Shetty as the female lead, with Amritha Aiyer playing a key role. Chandru describes the film as a celebration of rural roots, culture, and the spirit of village life. Producer Naveen Manohar, meanwhile, believes the soundtrack is among the film's strongest assets. "The film has a handful of melodious songs that beautifully complement the narrative," he says.

The soundtrack eventually settled at seven songs from nine. "Initially, there was a requirement for nine songs, but I felt seven worked better for the narrative," says Poornachandra. "Every song serves the theme. We have a nostalgic remix of 'Benki', a quirky love track with different emotional shades. The response so far has been encouraging."

Looking back, Poornachandra feels the industry has changed dramatically since Lucia. "Back then, the focus was simply on creating good songs. Today, music comes with many expectations. Songs need to clock millions of views, and there is constant pressure around the pan-India market."

That pressure, he admits, has made originality harder to protect. "The challenge today is preserving the essence of music. Over the last few years, the process has become more complicated. Sometimes the requirements can become frustrating because the conversation shifts from music to numbers."

Although he agrees that views are recognition, he has doubts over a song's organic appeal. "Views bring acknowledgement, but I am not sure how organic every hit is these days. Marketing plays a huge role. Ultimately, audiences decide whether they connect with a film. Music is the first invitation to the audience."

Twelve years into the industry, Poornachandra says the pressure has not disappeared. "With every project, there is always the fear of whether the music will work. Can we please the ear? That's the question. But I still enjoy the process. If even one person tells me they loved a song, that makes me happiest."

For Gramayana, that passion extended beyond the songs. "Usually, the background score depends entirely on the story, but I enjoyed the freedom to explore with Gramayana," he signs off.

Kizhar to make his debut as hero with Patthedari

CE FEATURES

THE makers of Patthedari, an upcoming crime thriller, unveiled the film's first look poster in the presence of several film industry personalities. Written and directed by Srinivas Jayaram, the upcoming film is produced by Mohammed Atheeq under the AK Productions banner. Patthedari marks newcomer Kizhar's acting debut in a lead role, and is Srinivas Jayaram's return to direction after Gajapade.

Speaking about the film, Jayaram said that while crime thrillers are a familiar genre, Patthedari aims to stand out with its unique screenplay and narrative treatment. Inspired by several investigative thrillers, he has developed a story centred on four key characters. The director revealed that Kizhar was the right choice for the lead role. Alongside him, actors Giri, Roopa, and Siddesh play pivotal characters in the film. Production is set to begin next month, with a major portion of the shoot planned in Bengaluru.

Expressing his excitement, Kizhar said he was immediately drawn to the story and his character. The debutant added that he learned the craft of acting by watching the performances of legendary Kannada stars such as Dr Rajkumar, Vishnuvardhan, Shivarajkumar, and Puneeth Rajkumar, whom he considers his inspirations. Actor Siddesh praised the script and described his role as an interesting one, while actress Roopa said the film combines a gripping crime-thriller narrative with well-written characters.
